Hussein Says New Big War Could Come In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jordan's embattled King Hussein arrived for talks with President Nixon today, expressing fear that another major war threatens in the Middle East with the "possibility of outside involvement."

"If no solution is found I think the danger of another major conflict in the area in the not too distant future is very real," Hussein said Monday as he arrived in New York en route to talks with Nixon today.

The 34-year-old monarch who has steered his wracked nation through 16 years of war and peril said he welcomed Big Four efforts to settle Mideast tensions and said he hoped they are successful.

But within hours after making his comments, guns blazed across the Jordanian-Israeli border and 13 people were wounded in another of the almost continuous duels that keep the region's tempers at white heat.

In the latest attack, the Israeli army said rockets were fired from the Jordanian port of Aqaba into the Israeli resort of Eilat and that the "Israeli air force attacked the sources of fire and silenced them."

Israel retaliated with air attacks against Aqaba.

In another important development Monday Secretary of State William P. Rogers declared at a news conference that "Israel ... has a right to exist."

Rogers made no mention of any Arab countries directly, but his remarks were considered a stiff rebuke to the Arab position.

Hussein is one of the most flexible and pro-Western of the Arab leaders. But he rules a land shorn of its richest province and overcrowded with refugees which has become a main base for Palestinian guerrillas waging hit-and-run war against Israel.

Disclose Soviets Flying Regularly Near U.S. Soil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet bomber flights to the fringe of North America have become so routine in recent months that U.S. fighters aren't always sent to intercept them, according to Pentagon sources.

Over the last 15 months, these sources say, there have been about three dozen incidents of Soviet planes flying near continental North America, usually Alaska or Canada.

However, the Soviets have been careful to turn back before actually flying over U.S. or Canadian territory, the sources said.

While continental defense officials occasionally may decide not to scramble interceptors, the Soviet bombers are always monitored on radar from the time they get within a few hundred miles of the North American coastline until they leave.

Only two or three of the Soviet missions have been disclosed officially by the Pentagon, which indicates the low key attitude

In advance of his meeting with Nixon, Hussein said he did not have a plan for peace but said "I do believe I have some good thoughts to put forth."

He is known, however, to believe that all hopes for peace lie with the talks that opened in New York last week between the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France. He also believes that continuing tension in the Middle East can only help the Soviets.

The most recent Soviet flight, sources report, occurred April 1 when eight to 10 TU16 Badgers came within 65 miles of Northwest Alaska.

The Alaskan Air Command scrambled F102 interceptors, but no nose-to-nose confrontation was necessary.

The Badger is a twin turbo jet aircraft roughly comparable to the old American B47 and capable of speeds up to 580 mph.

Seven other Soviet flights near U.S. territory this year are recorded on a list now stamped secret in the Pentagon.

In addition, there were more than 25 other similar incidents in 1968 not only off Alaska but near Newfoundland, Labrador, Iceland, and around the Aleutian Island chain in the Pacific.

Pentagon sources say the Soviets have been careful to halt their approaches within 50 to 150 miles of North American territory during the 15-month period.

Pentagon sources are frank to admit the United States has no real basis for complaint so long as the Soviet planes remain outside NATO territory.

Furthermore, the United States could hardly protest that the flights are provocative. Strategic Air Command training missions send nuclear-capable B52s quite regularly into Arctic regions near Soviet territory.

Sources believe the Soviets have three reasons for conducting what appears to be a regular program of flights toward the United States:

—They want to keep a constant check on how long it takes U.S. radar to detect incoming planes and scramble fighters to intercept them.

—The flights provide Soviet air crews with training made highly realistic when U.S. fighters meet them.

—The Soviets collect various intelligence information from the missions. Even without flying over U.S. territory, they can take long range photographs, test radar detection systems and maintain data on American radio frequencies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was at work on a new book of reflections on the Atlantic alliance and other topics until five weeks before his death March 28.

At Doubleday & Co., Eisenhower's publisher, a spokesman said Monday that more than 20,000 words had been written before doctors ruled out any further work on the volume.

The general had worked at Walter Reed General Hospital with Samuel Vaughan, executive editor of Doubleday, and with Kevin McCann, a longtime aide and speech writer.

Vaughan said the manuscript would be reviewed by Eisenhower's son, John, along with some letters that will be included in the book. No publication date has been set but it may appear early next year, he said.

"Completing the book had become President Eisenhower's principal occupation even after he was hospitalized last May," Vaughan said. "He worked with the zeal and affection of a professional writer, and seemed to gain new vitality every time he spoke about his writing projects."

More than 5,000 cars were recalled, a Rolls spokesman said. About 1,350 are in the United States.

NEW YORK (AP) — Purchasers of the symbol of automotive opulence—a Rolls Royce—have run into a roadblock.

Rolls-Royce, Inc. announced Monday that it was recalling all cars it produced in the last four years to correct a potential steering defect.

The Rolls Royce is available in two models, a convertible selling for $31,600 and an economy sedan for $19,600. The English firm also produces Bentleys, identical except for the radiator grill, which sell for a few hundred dollars less. Custom models are more expensive, including one available only to "permanent heads of state."

The general warmup brought flooding to parts of the northern Midwest which had been hit by heavy snow through the winter. The Little Sioux River flowed out of its banks in the northwest Iowa town of Cherokee and covered 25 blocks. Some 200 persons were forced to move.

Rivers and streams also rose in southern Minnesota and portions of Wisconsin. But in some cases, at least, it appeared occasional freezing in the last couple of weeks had made the snow melting a more gradual and less menacing process.

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The attorney for Rudolf Hess, onetime deputy of Adolf Hitler, says Hess is suffering from stomach, circulatory and eye ailments.

Hess, lone prisoner of West Berlin's allied-controlled Spandau Prison, should be released because of ill health, the lawyer said. He will be 75 April 26.

The lawyer, Alfred Seidl, did not specify the exact nature of the difficulties but said they "are not of an acute nature."

Authoritative sources in Berlin, however, say Hess is in excellent health.

U.S. Extends Olive Branch To Red China

Marks 2nd Time
Since Jan. 20

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, rebuffed by Communist China less than a month after taking office, has again extended the olive branch to Peking.

"We would like to have more friendly relations with Communist China," Secretary of State William P. Rogers told his first formal news conference Monday.

He said it is possible the Ninth Communist party conference in Peking will end with some change of direction in the Asian giant's foreign policy.

"But in any event we are willing to do what we can do to have more friendly relations with Red China," he added "but we are not going to do it in the spirit of exploiting it because we think it will give us some advantage against the Soviet Union."

Another round of talks between U.S. and Chinese spokesmen was scheduled for Feb. 20 in Warsaw, but the Chinese abruptly canceled it shortly after one of their diplomats defected to the West.

The State Department takes the position that it is up to the Chinese to reschedule the talks. Sources say they have made no such move.

Rogers also dealt with the ticklish question of American military bases and control in Asia by putting the administration on the record as acknowledging that "changes have to be made with the passage of time."

Pressure is strong in Okinawa for return of the island to Japanese control. It was wrested away in the last bloody battle of World War II and is now supervised by an American high commissioner. It is also home for many of the B52 bombers that bomb South Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading Senate opponent of President Nixon's missile defense program says the administration keeps changing its reasons for building the controversial Safeguard system.

"We have had a whole series of rationalizations for Safeguard from the administration," Democrat George S. McGovern of South Dakota said. "They keep changing them all the time. Now it seems to me they are escalating the terror rather than giving us any enlightenment."

McGovern commented in an interview shortly after Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told a group of European reporters visiting the Pentagon Monday that the Soviet Union is testing a triple warhead for its big SS9 rocket.

Laird has cited deployment of the SS9—without extra warheads—as reason for deploying Safeguard. He said Monday that mounting triple warheads on the SS9 would give Russia triple the punch it is expected to have by 1973 and the capability to take out the Minuteman missiles comprising America's main deterrent, first strike force.

"I'm not talking about intentions," Laird said, "but about capability."

Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., a top Senate authority on military matters, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who turned down Nixon's offer of the defense secretaryship, both have cited the SS9 as a prime reason for installing the anti-missile system.

Jackson said the United States has no multiple-warhead missile in its arsenal. Russell said this country is working toward development of such a weapon.

THE ELECTION Board of Pickaway County is getting ready for the coming May Primary. Notices have been sent to voters in the Circleville Twp. North and Circleville City precinct 1F of changes in polling places. The deputy registrar's hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

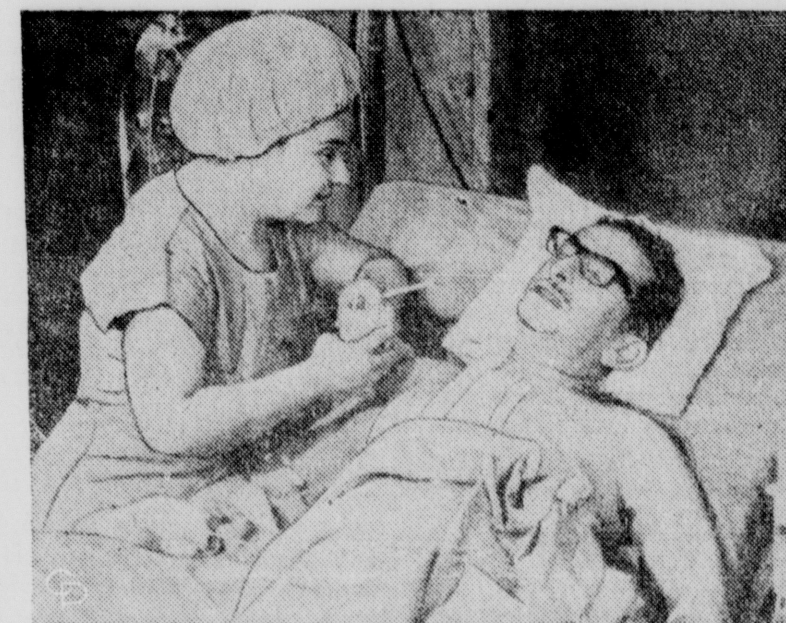

The board also announced that civil and military absentee voters may apply to the office for ballots for the primary. For area residents not registered for the coming election the board has extended its regular hours to include 8-12 p.m. Saturdays for the rest of April.

State legislators, the court said then, must arrange the districts so that "as nearly as is practicable one man's vote in a congressional election is to be worth as much as another's."

The states came up with all sorts of plans. Some were cut down by the Supreme Court or other federal courts. Some were judged to have passed constitutional tests.

But no one was certain what

MECHANICAL HEART recipient Haskell Karp, 47, Skokie, Ill., is visited in the hospital by wife Shirley in Houston, Tex., prior to receiving a human heart transplant. He was the first patient to be implanted with such a mechanical heart (right). It is called an Orthotopic Cardiac Prosthesis, and is attached by tubes to a nearby console, the power source.

Heart Patient Karp Said Suffering From Pneumonia

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Haskell Karp, the man who had survived 65 hours with a mechanical heart, was reported today to have developed pneumonia.

St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital reported this 25 hours after the 47-year-old Skokie, Ill., resident had received a second human heart in the 19th transplant performed at the hospital.

"Mr. Karp has developed a patch of pneumonia in the right lung and his kidney function is depressed," the hospital bulletin said. "He remains responsive but he is tired. Doctors are hopeful he will respond to medical management."

There was no indication when another bulletin would be issued.

Prior to the mid-morning report, Karp's condition had been listed as satisfactory.

Cooley had said Monday that Karp has a "low incidence of rejection and will be unlikely to reject" his new heart.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley said indications were that Karp's body was unlikely to reject the donor heart. Such rejection has been a major cause of failure in many past transplants.

"We think he is a favorable type of recipient," Cooley said. It was Cooley's 19th such operation.

The donor, Mrs. Barbara Ewan of Lawrence, Mass., died minutes after arriving on a trouble-plagued jet ambulance flight from Massachusetts.

Cooley said the eight-ounce plastic and fabric heart he implanted in Karp's chest on a temporary basis last Friday has proved it can keep patients "live while awaiting a human donor."

"With the mechanical heart we can buy time until a transplant donor can be obtained," he said. "This offers us the backup we have wanted for such a long time." Cooley added:

"We've put up one sputnik, you might say. If we could develop a power pack that could also be inserted we could expect it to sustain life much longer."

The experimental device was inserted during an operation last Friday when it developed that Karp's own heart was irreparably damaged.

A public appeal for a human donor was made by the patient's wife, Shirley. Cooley said he followed that up with personal calls to 25 or 30 surgeons in various parts of the nation.

Mrs. Carol Burns, 22, one of Mrs. Ewan's three daughters, said the family's decision to donate the heart was a response to Mrs. Karp's plea. Mrs. Ewan's husband died of a heart attack several years ago.

Doctors said Mrs. Ewan was suffering irreversible brain damage from an undetermined ailment. Lawrence General Hospital said she was admitted March 19 and had been in a coma since Saturday.

A Cleveland woman was the day's first traffic accident victim in Ohio, but other Ohioans died in two double fatality crashes reported Monday.

The deaths:

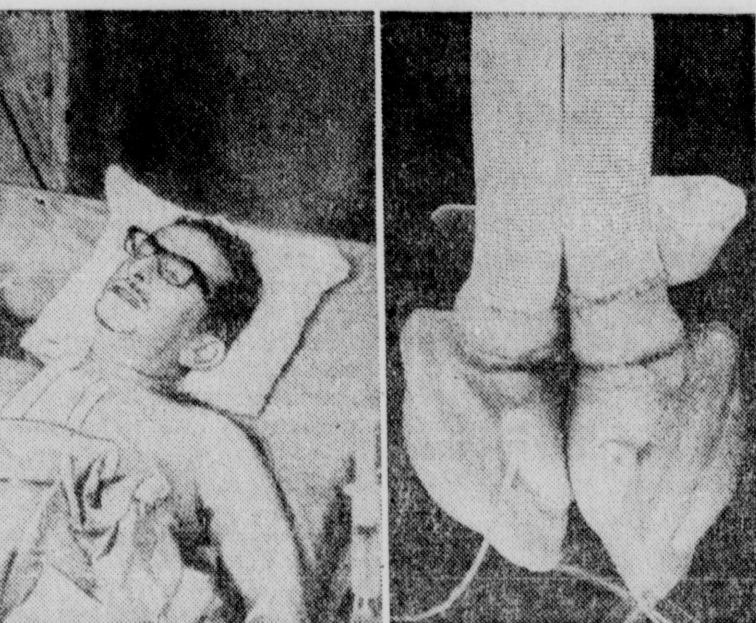

Ruby Smith, 24, Cleveland. Mary Irch and John Irch, Delphos.

Steven Stover, 19, Delaware, and Don Caldwell, 20, Ostrander.

Mrs. Smith was killed early Tuesday in a two-car collision at an intersection in Brook Park, Cuyahoga County.

Mary and John Irch were killed when their car collided with a dump truck at an intersection on Ohio 39N near Lima Monday.

Stover and Caldwell were killed on a rural road near Point Pleasant, W. Va., Monday when the auto in which they were riding overturned and struck a tree.

Secret Contacts Produce Little Real Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret contacts with Communist negotiators reportedly have produced little or no real progress toward ending the Vietnam war despite some recent optimistic reports from U.S. officials.

Some high administration authorities say privately they believe that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong still are convinced they will win the war in South Vietnam if they fight on long enough. These authorities conclude that enemy leaders are therefore not yet seriously interested in a compromise settlement.

On the contrary, according to this view, they want to keep public pressure on President Nixon to bring the conflict to a close on their terms.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a news conference Monday the presence of enemy negotiators in Paris, taken together with "indirect reports we have received" indicate "some interest in a negotiated" settlement on their part.

"Whether this is being done just to mislead us or not," he said, "there is no way of knowing until we proceed a little further down the road."

In Paris, South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said flatly, "The enemy at the present time is not ready for serious talks."

Rogers' comment, suggesting deep uncertainty about Communist intentions, appeared to be in line with word from other informants here that the United States and South Vietnam have encountered hard going in trying to set up regular secret negotiations on the basic issues of withdrawal of troops by both sides and a political settlement in South Vietnam.

CHICAGO (AP) — Detectives are investigating the bomb explosion that killed a woman employee and injured eight other persons in the toy department of the Goldblatt Department Store.

Police said the black-powder bomb made out of a 6-inch pipe was in a brown paper bag on a shelf in the basement department and was discovered Monday by a customer.

Detective Arthur Nolan said six-year-old James Aldrich told police his father, Frank, picked up the bag and exclaimed, "My God, this looks like a bomb."

As Aldrich handed the bag to a clerk, the bomb went off killing the woman, Mrs. Catherine Lebeater, 65, of Chicago.

Aldrich and his wife, Josephine, 45, were in critical condition in South Chicago Community Hospital. Their son was listed in fair condition.

Five store employees also were injured. All were in good condition.

Charles Velgos, store manager, said he has never received a bomb threat.

"We've never had any trouble with individuals, organizations or unions in this community," Velgos said.

The five-story building was evacuated within 10 minutes. An estimated 200 to 300 customers were in the South Side store.

Former Councilman To Face Charges

NILES, Ohio (AP) — Warren police filed charges Monday against former Niles City Councilman Alfred Pincione, 38, after allegedly finding $1,000 worth of stolen clothing in the basement of a tavern operated by Pincione.

The clothing was reported to be part of the loot in an $80,000 burglary last week at the Gentry Co. in Warren.

Pincione was charged with receiving stolen property.

9 Persons Die In Swiss Blast

Explosives Plant
Site Of Disaster

AARAU Switzerland (AP) — An explosives factory blew up today at the village of Dottikon, killing nine persons and injuring 40 others, police reported.

Alarm sirens and church bells began ringing in villages and towns for miles around as the explosion sent a shock wave through the countryside and raised a gigantic mushroom cloud over the village.

Within minutes hundreds of ambulances, fire engines and patrol cars from the entire canton of Aarau raced to Dottikon, an industrial village of some 2,000 inhabitants.

The blast was felt 12 miles away in Aarau, and for five miles around it shattered nearly all window panes.

Police headquarters said the explosion blew off roofs and cracked and damaged the walls of several dozen houses in Dottikon. A small forest next to the factory caught fire, but contrary to early reports the only buildings that collapsed were some of those of the explosives company.

The explosion occurred in a nitrate plant at 7:15 a.m. shortly after the factory's 400 employees had come to work. But police said elaborate safety arrangements prevented the explosion from setting off stocks of combustibles.

It was not immediately clear what had caused the blast.

It was the third major accidental explosion in Switzerland this year. One destroyed a fire-cracker factory near Lausanne in January, killing a pedestrian who was walking past. Four workers were seriously injured in an explosion that destroyed a house under construction at Hergiswil in February.

2 Jesuit Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Two leading Dutch Jesuit priests have quit their order in a dispute on priestly celibacy.

An announcement today by the father general of the Society of Jesus said Fathers Hubert Oosterhuis and Anthony Van der Stap, two of the chaplains of a controversial students parish in Amsterdam, signed their resignation papers Saturday.

Father Oosterhuis is a poet who composed the words for many of the hymns of the Roman Catholic Church in the Netherlands.

High Court Unrealistic On Apportionment?

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's latest one-man vote ruling represents a refusal to yield to political realities in the states.

The Constitution, the court says, demands a "good faith" attempt to draw exactly equal congressional districts.

State legislators, using federal census figures, have to aim for the bulls-eye. If they don't, said

Justice John Marshall Harlan complained: "The court refuses to permit any room for legislative common sense."

The point of the ruling was to clarify five words: "As nearly as is practicable."

The virtually indecipherable phrase appears in the February 1964 decision that put U.S. congressional districts under the one-man one-vote standards.

In dismay, he said the court appeared to be rejecting every possible type of justification with "distinct economic and social interests."

He even rejected "a state's preference for pleasingly shaped districts."

Justice Abe Fortas, to "dramatize the fallacy of inflexible insistence upon mathematical exactness, with no tolerance for reality," put his imagination to work.

In dismay, he said the court appeared to be rejecting every possible type of justification that could be advanced for population disparities.

MECHANICAL HEART recipient Haskell Karp, 47, Skokie, Ill., is visited in the hospital by wife Shirley in Houston, Tex., prior to receiving a human heart transplant. He was the first patient to be implanted with such a mechanical heart (right). It is called an Orthotopic Cardiac Prosthesis, and is attached by tubes to a nearby console, the power source.

Heart Patient Karp Said Suffering From Pneumonia

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Haskell Karp, the man who had survived 65 hours with a mechanical heart, was reported today to have developed pneumonia.

St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital reported this 25 hours after the 47-year-old Skokie, Ill., resident had received a second human heart in the 19th transplant performed at the hospital.

"Mr. Karp has developed a patch of pneumonia in the right lung and his kidney function is depressed," the hospital bulletin said. "He remains responsive but he is tired. Doctors are hopeful he will respond to medical management."

There was no indication when another bulletin would be issued.

Prior to the mid-morning report, Karp's condition had been listed as satisfactory.

Cooley had said Monday that Karp has a "low incidence of rejection and will be unlikely to reject" his new heart.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley said indications were that Karp's body was unlikely to reject the donor heart. Such rejection has been a major cause of failure in many past transplants.

"We think he is a favorable type of recipient," Cooley said. It was Cooley's 19th such operation.

The donor, Mrs. Barbara Ewan of Lawrence, Mass., died minutes after arriving on a trouble-plagued jet ambulance flight from Massachusetts.

Cooley said the eight-ounce plastic and fabric heart he implanted in Karp's chest on a temporary basis last Friday has proved it can keep patients alive while awaiting a human donor.

"With the mechanical heart we can buy time until a transplant donor can be obtained," he said. "This offers us the backup we have wanted for such a long time." Cooley added:

"We've put up one sputnik, you might say. If we could develop a power pack that could also be inserted we could expect it to sustain life much longer."

The experimental device was inserted during an operation last Friday when it developed that Karp's own heart was irreparably damaged.

A public appeal for a human donor was made by the patient's wife, Shirley. Cooley said he followed that up with personal calls to 25 or 30 surgeons in various parts of the nation.

Mrs. Carol Burns, 22, one of Mrs. Ewan's three daughters, said the family's decision to donate the heart was a response to Mrs. Karp's plea. Mrs. Ewan's husband died of a heart attack several years ago.

Doctors said Mrs. Ewan was suffering irreversible brain damage from an undetermined ailment. Lawrence General Hospital said she was admitted March 19 and had been in a coma since Saturday.

Detective Arthur Nolan said six-year-old James Aldrich told him his father, Frank, picked up the bag and exclaimed, "My God, this looks like a bomb."

As Aldrich handed the bag to a clerk, the bomb went off killing the woman, Mrs. Catherine Lebeater, 65, of Chicago.

Aldrich and his wife, Josephine, 46, were in critical condition in South Chicago Community Hospital. Their son was listed in fair condition.

Five store employees also were injured. All were in good condition.

Charles Velgos, store manager, said he has never received a bomb threat.

"We've never had any trouble with individuals, organizations or unions in this community," Velgos said.

The five-story building was evacuated within 10 minutes. An estimated 200 to 300 customers were in the South Side store.

Pincione was charged with receiving stolen property.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., "they must justify each variation."

All this looks like trouble for the legislators—and for the federal courts which will have to pass on apportionment plans.

For Brennan's opinion Monday rejected as possible justifications "partisan politics," the fact that a plan represents "reasonable legislative compromise," or that the legislators didn't want to fragment areas with "distinct economic and social interests."

He even rejected "a state's preference for pleasingly shaped districts."

Justice Abe Fortas, to "dramatize the fallacy of inflexible insistence upon mathematical exactness, with no tolerance for reality," put his imagination to work.

In dismay, he said the court appeared to be rejecting every possible type of justification that could be advanced for population disparities.

Justice John Marshall Harlan complained: "The court refuses to permit any room for legislative common sense."

The point of the ruling was to clarify five words: "As nearly as is practicable."

The virtually indecipherable phrase appears in the February 1964 decision that put U.S. congressional districts under the one-man one-vote standards.

But no one was certain what

State legislators, the court said then, must arrange the districts so that "as nearly as is practicable one man's vote in a congressional election is to be worth as much as another's."

The states came up with all sorts of plans. Some were cut down by the Supreme Court or other federal courts. Some were judged to have passed constitutional tests.

Secret Contacts Produce Little Real Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret contacts with Communist negotiators reportedly have produced little or no real progress toward ending the Vietnam war despite some recent optimistic reports from U.S. officials.

Some high administration authorities say privately they believe that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong still are convinced they will win the war in South Vietnam if they fight on long enough. These authorities conclude that enemy leaders are therefore not yet seriously interested in a compromise settlement.

On the contrary, according to this view, they want to keep public pressure on President Nixon to bring the conflict to a close on their terms.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a news conference Monday the presence of enemy negotiators in Paris, taken together with "indirect reports we have received" indicate "some interest in a negotiated" settlement on their part.

"Whether this is being done just to mislead us or not," he said, "there is no way of knowing until we proceed a little further down the road."

In Paris, South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Kao Ky said flatly, "The enemy at the present time is not ready for serious talks."

Rogers' comment, suggesting deep uncertainty about Communist intentions, appeared to be in line with word from other informants here that the United States and South Vietnam have encountered hard going in trying to set up regular secret negotiations on the basic issues of withdrawal of troops by both sides and a political settlement in South Vietnam.

9 Persons Die In Swiss Blast

Explosives Plant
Site Of Disaster

AARAU, Switzerland (AP) — An explosives factory blew up today at the village of Dottikon, killing nine persons and injuring 40 others, police reported.

Alarm sirens and church bells began ringing in villages and towns for miles around as the explosion sent a shock wave through the countryside and raised a gigantic mushroom cloud over the village.

Within minutes hundreds of ambulances, fire engines and patrol cars from the entire canton of Aarau raced to Dottikon, an industrial village of some 2,000 inhabitants.

The blast was felt 12 miles away in Aarau, and for five miles around it shattered nearly all window panes.

Travel Service Opens Office

NEW SERVICE — Miss Jo Ann Brink, Route 3, is the manager of the Circleville office of Knight's Travel Service which will open tomorrow.

The Knight Travel Service is opening an office at 206 S. Court St. in Circleville under the supervision of Miss Jo Ann Brink.

The travel service is owned and operated by Mrs. Erma M. Knight. The main office is located in West Jefferson.

Mrs. Knight has had 22 years of extensive personal experience in the field of travel and is well qualified as a tour director. The local office opens officially at 9 a.m. tomorrow with ribbon cutting ceremonies. An open house is planned from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Miss Brink, they will offer conducted and independent tours and provide travel services for individuals, businesses and industries.

There is no service charge to the customer, according to Miss Brink.

The local office will have tickets for all airlines and can provide reservations for all steamship lines.

Mrs. Knight creates and prepares her own brochure programs for tours into all areas including Scandinavian Europe, the Middle East, with emphasis in the Holy Lands; British East Africa, in the north and South Pacific and around the world.

She formed the Knight Travel Service to create tours for special clientele, both independent and in groups from all over the United States, offering a way and means for a pleasant experience in travel and a happy vacation.

Miss Brink is the daughter of Mrs. Geneva Brink and the late Joseph Brink, Dunkle Road. She is a graduate of Circleville High School, Bliss Airline School and attended Greenbrier College for Women.

She is a member of Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club of which she will be the 1969-70 president.

MISS Brink is also a member of the Columbus Passenger Club, Broad Street Choir and of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church. She has sung with the Broad Street Choir since 1957 and has also sung with the Columbus Symphony in concerts.

Mrs. Knight is also a musician having studied violin, piano, and pipe organ under leading educators in music, and held the position of Organist for 15 consecutive years in Protestant Churches in Columbus. She taught music and for many years was actively engaged in musical organizations including the Columbus Music Teachers Association, the Symphony Club of Central Ohio and the Central Ohio Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. She also holds membership in the Woman's Luncheon Club of Columbus, Clintonville Women's Club, Soroptimist Club of Columbus and the Book Fellows Club of Ft. Lauderdale. She is a member of Trinity Episcopal Church of Columbus affiliated with All Saints Episcopal Church Ft. Lauderdale and All Saints Episcopal Church, Newberry, Michigan.

Stock List On Upside

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, spurred by bargain hunters, continued to rise early this afternoon in moderate trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.74 points at 921.52. The Dow lost 8.52 points in trading Monday.

Gains expanded their lead over losses to a bit more than 100 issues.

Brokers attributed the upward move to selective bargain hunting by both institutions and individual investors among those stocks whose prices have fallen to what is considered an attractive level.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .1 at 332.3, with industrials up .4, rails off .3, and utilities off .3.

On the American Stock Exchange, 14 of the 20 most-active issues were higher, 3 were lower, and 3 were unchanged.

Firemen Answer Three Calls

The Circleville Fire Department investigated three fires during the night and early morning.

At 9:15 p.m. Monday Ron Jacobs, E. Mound St., called and said that his garage was on fire. When a fire truck arrived firemen found only a trash fire. No damage was reported.

At 8:18 a.m. today firemen got a call from Gene Patrick, Route 1, Kingston, that his car was on fire at the intersection of Route 56 and Kingston Pike. The radiator hose on his car had burst. There was no damage to the car.

At 11 a.m. this morning, firemen were called to Tomlinson Welding, 430 West High Street, where paint thinner igniting had caused a fire. When firemen arrived the fire had been extinguished. The fire caused $50 damage to the building and its contents.

U.S. Changes Atom Stand

GENEVA (AP) —

In a new bid to halt production of nuclear weapons, the United States today dropped its demand for American inspection of Soviet facilities.

U.S. Delegate Adrian S. Fisher appealed to the 17-nation disarmament conference for an agreement that would halt the production of all fissionable material such as enriched uranium and plutonium. He also repeated the American offer to transfer 60,000 kilos of enriched uranium, U235, to peaceful purposes, if the Soviet Union did the same with 40,000 kilos of the same material. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

In what he termed "a change in the previous position of the United States, Fisher proposed that the agreement be safeguarded by the International Atomic Energy Agency, IAEA, in Vienna.

Previously the United States had insisted on an inspection system involving "substantial elements of adversary inspection, particularly in the search for undisclosed facilities."

This would mean U.S. and Soviet inspection teams visiting each other's facilities, a concept which has always been strongly opposed by the Russians on grounds that it could lead to spying.

The barge was being pushed by the tug Warren Ducet. No one aboard the tug was lost. The barge, which burst into flames after the collision, broke loose and floated downstream in two sections.

The Sunday night crash took place under the Greater New Orleans Mississippi River bridge. Flames which leaped up 175 feet damaged paint and eridwork but an inspection revealed no evidence of structural distortion. The damage to the bridge was estimated at $250,000 to $350,000.

Find Color TV Sets Emitting Dangerous Rays

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — A county survey of 5,000 Long Island color television sets has shown 20 per cent emitting potentially dangerous radiation—regardless of manufacturer or model.

Results of the two-year survey by the Suffolk County Public Health Service were disclosed Monday by County Executive Lee H. Dennison, who said the county was providing free inspection of color sets to all county residents who requested it.

Seymour Becker, county physicist who conducted the survey, said the age of the set, size of screen and type of cabinet did not figure in his findings, but "dangerous levels of radiation" were found in all types.

Owners, informed that their sets were emitting the dangerous X-rays, returned them to manufacturers for repair, he said, and although some sets were repaired free, other owners had to pay $15 or $25 for the service.

High Court ... Suicide Ruled In Death Of New Holland Man

degree of population equality was required. Could districts vary up to 15 per cent from mathematical perfection, or up to 10 per cent—or could they vary at all?

The 1967 Missouri plan, invalidated Monday, had a total range of only 5.96 per cent from the largest to the smallest district.

Missouri argued the variance should be considered "de minimis"—too small to be ruled at fault. Besides, the state said, the General Assembly acted out of a legitimate regard for the integrity of county lines, the compactness of districts, the political realities of "legislative interplay" and other reasons as well.

Brennan's opinion, joined by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Thurgood Marshall, rejected both arguments.

Any cut-off point would be arbitrary, said Brennan, and to pick one "would encourage legislators to strive for that range rather than for equality as nearly as practicable."

As for the realities of the legislative business, he said: "Problems created by partisan politics cannot justify an apportionment which does not otherwise pass constitutional muster."

A self-inflicted shotgun wound was the cause of death of a New Holland man, according to County Coroner Ray Carroll.

The body of Elmer T. Junk, 69, of 140 E. Front St., New Holland was found in a storage shed behind his home by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hallie Thatcher.

Mrs. Thatcher told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Earl Kuhn that Junk had gone to the shed behind the house about 10:30 a.m. Monday.

By noon when she had not heard anything from him, she went to the shed to look for him. She stated that she found him between barrels in the shed.

MRS. Thatcher stated that Junk had been despondent since his wife's death four years ago.

Junk had asked Mrs. Thatcher if she knew where all the important papers were before he went out to the shed at 10:30 a.m. she stated.

Time of death was set by County Coroner Ray Carroll at about 11 a.m.

Mrs. Thatcher stated that she didn't hear the gun fire as she was in the house with the doors closed.

Mr. Junk was born in Fayette County, July 25, 1899, the son of Thomas and Armilda Vincent Junk.

He was a retired farmer and lived all his life in the New Holland community.

His wife, Pauline Thatcher Junk, preceded him in death in 1966.

HE is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hamilton (Ruth) Rodgers, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Floyd (Elizabeth) Gaiser, Santa Ana, Calif.; one brother, Kenneth, Burbank, Calif.

Funeral services will be held 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Kirkpatrick, New Holland with the Rev. Frank White of the New Holland Methodist Church officiating.

Burial will be in New Holland Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Animal Thefts Are Checked By Sheriff

Two thefts of animals are being investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

A black Angus calf was stolen from the Charles Rivers farm on Hannawalt Road sometime between April 4 and 6, according to a report filed by Baxter Rivers, manager of the farm.

Five hens were stolen from a brood house at the residence of Virginia Russell, Route 2.

Rivers stated that his black Angus calf was in its barn Friday but was gone at feed time Monday.

In the case of the hens, Mrs. Russell told Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz that the animals were in the brood house when she and her family went out Monday. When they returned about 9 p.m. the hens, raised as a hobby by her son, were gone.

Ship Crash Probe Starts

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Coast Guard inquiry will open Thursday into the cause of the collision between an oil-laden barge and a freighter with the apparent loss of 2 men in a river of fire.

The 7,391-ton Formosan freighter Union Faith sank in the Mississippi River in 110 feet of water early Monday, about eight hours after catching fire.

Twenty-five crewmen were missing from the vessel along with Capt. Kenneth H. Scarbrough of New Orleans, the river pilot aboard the Union Faith. Of the 26 survivors from the freighter, all but eight were released from hospitals.

The barge was being pushed by the tug Warren Ducet. No one aboard the tug was lost. The barge, which burst into flames after the collision, broke loose and floated downstream in two sections.

The Sunday night crash took place under the Greater New Orleans Mississippi River bridge. Flames which leaped up 175 feet damaged paint and eridwork but an inspection revealed no evidence of structural distortion. The damage to the bridge was estimated at $250,000 to $350,000.

Mayor Defends Pair Against City Charges

Circleville pressed its case against two young men in Common Pleas Court Monday for the illegal possession of burglary tools.

Horace and James Mattix, ages 19 and 23, both of Circleville, were charged by the city police with having burglary tools in their possession March 29. Charges of breaking into Landmark Dehydrator Plant and stealing equipment valued at $390 were also presented.

Attorney Richard Gerhardt waived right of his clients to a grand jury indictment and proceeded to enter pleas of guilty for both of them.

Judge William Ammer stated that, due to the age of the youths and the lack of prior record, he would be lenient. The two were placed on three years' probation, ordered to make restitution and told never to return to Pickaway County.

Charges against an older man allegedly involved in the same incidents were not heard at the Monday session of the court.

In other business before the court, James Dewey, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, waived his rights to a grand jury indictment and to be represented by an attorney and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of uttering and publishing forged checks.

The case Dewey was charged with was for writing a check valued at $78.90.

Dewey, who had a prior record, was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary for 1-20 years.

Preble Deputy Slays Suspect In Gun Fight

EATON, Ohio (AP) — A deputy sheriff shot and killed one of two suspected robbers during a running gun battle and high speed auto chase through Preble County early today.

The chase began when Deputy Charles Leinbach spotted on Ohio 732 near here a car believed used as the getaway vehicle during a holdup in Hamilton, south of here, late Monday night.

Leinbach said several shots were exchanged as he chased the car along Ohio 732, then east over U.S. 35 before one of his bullets mortally wounded the driver.

The dead man, tentatively identified as Kenneth Krauter, about 30, died in a hospital at Dayton. His companion, also about 30 and tentatively identified as Raymond Green, was not hurt.

Leinbach said Krauter suffered a bullet wound in the back of the head. Green reached over to the steering wheel and stopped the car on U.S. 35 just east of West Alexandria, the deputy said.

Leinbach said their car bore the license plates of an auto which two men used to speed away from a robbery at a dairy store in Hamilton.

The robbers, authorities reported, took about $150 in the holdup and they forced a female clerk and young male assistant into a back room.

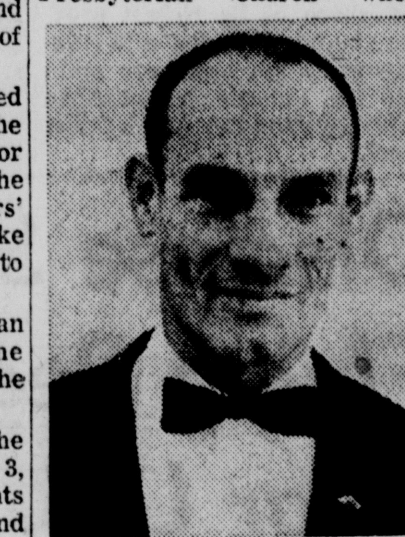

The assistant, however, took down the license number of the getaway car, authorities said.

Three DuPont Employees Promoted To Foreman Posts

Three Du Pont employees have recently received new appointments at the Circleville plant. They are W. B. Henderly, J. R. Hayes and Lloyd Frazier. Each has been assigned as foreman of their respective departments.

W. G. Henderly has been with the Du Pont company since November, 1959 as a mechanic in the works engineering department. He now serves as foreman of that department.

Henderly, his wife, Hazel M. and three children, Rita Sue, Margaret Ann and Max Eugene reside in Amanda where he is Institutional Representative of Boy Scout Troop 189. They are members of the Amanda Presbyterian Church where

W. G. HENDERLY

Henderly is a Sunday School superintendent and a past deacon.

Lawyer Sues Railroads Over His Disbarment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Youngstown attorney John Ruffalo Jr., who has been barred from practicing in state courts, has filed suit against the Baltimore Ohio Railroad and the American Association of Railroads for damages totaling $10 million.

Ruffalo alleges that the defendants conspired to have him disbarred and that as a result his extensive personal injury claim business was damaged.

He accused the railroad and the association of using "trick, artifice and subterfuge" to persuade injured railroad employees to make false statements about the way they had retained legal counsel.

Ruffalo was barred from practice in Ohio courts in 1964 and later was barred from federal courts. He won an appeal of the federal courts ruling and presently is permitted to practice in those courts but not in state courts.

NEW SERVICE — Miss Jo Ann Brink, Route 3, is the manager of the Circleville office of Knight's Travel Service which will open tomorrow.

The Knight Travel Service is opening an office at 206 S. Court St. in Circleville under the supervision of Miss Jo Ann Brink.

The travel service is owned and operated by Mrs. Erma M. Knight. The main office is located in West Jefferson.

Mrs. Knight has had 22 years of extensive personal experience in the field of travel and is well qualified as a tour director. The local office opens officially at 9 a.m. tomorrow with ribbon cutting ceremonies. An open house is planned from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

ACCORDING to Miss Brink, they will offer conducted and independent tours and provide travel services for individuals, businesses and industries.

There is no service charge to the customer, according to Miss Brink.

The local office will have tickets for all airlines and can provide reservations for all steamship lines.

Mrs. Knight creates and prepares her own brochure programs for tours into all areas including Scandinavian Europe, the Middle East, with emphasis in the Holy Lands; British East Africa, in the north and South Pacific and around the world.

She formed the Knight Travel Service to create tours for special clientele, both independent and in groups from all over the United States, offering a way and means for a pleasant experience in travel and a happy vacation.

Miss Brink is the daughter of Mrs. Geneva Brink and the

Stock List On Upside

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, spurred by bargain hunters, continued to rise early this afternoon in moderate trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.74 points at 921.52. The Dow lost 8.52 points in trading Monday.

Gains expanded their lead over losses to a bit more than 100 issues.

Brokers attributed the upward move to selective bargain hunting by both institutions and individual investors among those stocks whose prices have fallen to what is considered an attractive level.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.1 at 332.3, with industrials up .4, rails off .3, and utilities off .3.

On the American Stock Exchange, 14 of the 20 most-active issues were higher, 3 were lower, and 3 were unchanged.

Firemen Answer Three Calls

The Circleville Fire Department investigated three fires during the night and early morning.

At 9:15 p.m. Monday Ron Jacobs, E. Mount St., called and said that his garage was on fire. When a fire truck arrived firemen found only a trash fire. No damage was reported.

At 8:18 a.m. today firemen got a call from Gene Patrick, Route 1, Kingston, that his car was on fire at the intersection of Route 56 and Kingston Pike. The radiator hose on his car had burst. There was no damage to the car.

At 11 a.m. this morning, firemen were called to Tomlinson Welding, 430 West High Street, where paint thinner igniting had caused a fire. When firemen arrived the fire had been extinguished. The fire caused $50 damage to the building and its contents.

degree of population equality was required. Could districts vary up to 12 per cent from mathematical perfection, or up to 10 per cent—or could they vary at all?

The 1967 Missouri plan, invalidated Monday, had a total range of only 5.96 per cent from the largest to the smallest district.

Missouri argued the variance should be considered "de minimis"—too small to be ruled at fault. Besides, the state said, the General Assembly acted out of a legitimate regard for the integrity of county lines, the compactness of districts, the political realities of "legislative interplay" and other reasons as well.

Brennan's opinion, joined by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Thurgood Marshall, rejected both arguments.

Any cut-off point would be arbitrary, said Brennan, and to pick one "would encourage legislators to strive for that range rather than for equality as nearly as practicable."

As for the realities of the legislating business, he said: "Problems created by partisan politics cannot justify an apportionment which does not otherwise pass constitutional muster."

Owners, informed that their sets were emitting the dangerous X-rays, returned them to manufacturers for repair, he said, and although some sets were repaired free, other owners had to pay $15 or $25 for the service.

Results of the two-year survey by the Suffolk County Public Health Service were disclosed Monday by County Executive Lee H. Dennison, who said the county was providing free inspection of color sets to all county residents who requested it.

Social Security Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on social security matters is provided by the local Social Security Office and is published here as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked.

Q — My mother has just died at 75. Neither she nor my father ever worked under social security, but my mother was receiving a $40 a month from social security because she was over 72. Will social security help pay her burial expenses?

A — No. Social security makes a lump-sum death payment only when the deceased person has worked long enough under the program.

Q — Two years ago I began receiving benefits as a disabled worker. The law said I had to be disabled for six months before they began. The benefits recently stopped because my condition improved and I was able to return to work. If my condition worsens and I become eligible for disability benefits again, will I have to wait another six months before I get benefits?

A — No. Ordinarily you can start getting benefits immediately if you should again become disabled within five years — even if your impairment is different from the previous one.

Q — How will Medicare help my mother pay for a wheelchair?

A — The medical insurance part of Medicare can help pay for either the purchase or rental of a wheelchair for use in your mother's home if her doctor prescribes it. Whether she buys or rents, Medicare ordinarily will make monthly payments equal to 80 percent of the reasonable rental charges — after she has met the $50 annual deductible. She is the one who decides whether to buy or rent. But before she decides, she should ask her doctor how long she will need the wheelchair.

Remember, Medicare payments stop when the medical need for the equipment stops. If she decides to buy the chair and agrees to pay for it over a period of time, she may still be paying for it after the Medicare payments stop.

On the other hand, if she rents and her need for the equipment is permanent, she could end up paying her share of the monthly rental for life, plus each year's $50 deductible. This could total much more than the purchase price of the wheelchair.

Q — Do I have to consider the value of room and board I furnish to my maid when I report her wages for social security purposes?

A — No. Only cash wages paid to a domestic employee count for social security credit. A domestic employee must earn $50 or more cash from one employer in a calendar quarter in order to have her wages count for social security. If a maid commutes to the home in which she works, and her employer reimburses her for the carfare, those case carefare payments count toward wages under social security.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers declared Monday that "we certainly hope there will be some chance of a mutual withdrawal of troops" from Vietnam this year.

Rogers told a news conference that he plans to pay a visit of three or four days to South Vietnam following a foreign ministers meeting of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization in Bangkok, Thailand, in May.

The Nixon administration, Rogers said in response to a direct question, does "have a plan which we think is fair and reasonable for ending this conflict" in Vietnam.

"We're going to proceed in every possible way to apply it," he declared. "We have every hope it will bring peace."

He flatly refused—as he and other administration officials have done in the past—to give any details of the plan or to whether there has in fact been any progress in secret contacts with Communist negotiators in Paris or elsewhere.

On the key question of troop withdrawal, Rogers told the newsmen and women who crowded his first news conference as secretary of state:

"I certainly hope there will be some chance of a mutual withdrawal of troops this year. But if it's to be mutual you have to have mutuality."

"As to a unilateral withdrawal of troops (a U.S. withdrawal without parallel Communist action), I won't go beyond what the President has said. We are considering all possibilities. I won't predict what might be done."

On other subjects, Rogers said:

—He has difficulty in understanding why the Soviet Union is deploying a massive nuclear missile—the SS9—which carries a 25-megaton warhead. This is "one of the first questions we intend to take up with them when we have the U.S.-Soviet talks on strategic arms limitation," he said.

—The United States is actively preparing for the strategic arms limitation talks—the aim of which would be to limit nuclear weapons—and "we expect they will begin in late spring or early summer."

—The Nixon administration is "willing to do what we can to have more friendly relations with Red China," Rogers said this after commenting that the United States does not consider it wise to attempt to exploit differences between Red China and Russia; the U.S. would like more friendly relations with both.

—The United States has expressed its concern to the Soviet Union about its actions in Czechoslovakia. Rogers said that when the Soviets have 60,000 to 70,000 troops, and tanks, in Czechoslovakia it makes East-West relations very difficult and in fact "the whole Brezhnev doctrine is very disconcerting." His reference was to Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist Party chief, who WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided to postpone potential economic sanctions against Peru pending a further effort to solve the dispute over Peruvian seizure of U.S. oil properties.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced the decision at the news conference only two days before the April 9 deadline when, by law, Washington would have to crack down on Peru aid should Lima not offer appropriate compensation for the oil seizure.

Rogers said that the Peruvian government has advised that has argued Russia has a right to intervene to suppress change in any Communist country. No Pick Up Book 51

They talked it over one day and discovered that they live on the same street, are about the same age, drive similar cars and have identical coverage from the same company. But there the similarity ended. Here's why:

The case of Mr. A! The man at left—we'll call him Mr. A—is married and has no children. He drives to work 7 miles each day and uses his car the rest of the time for shopping and pleasure. He has not had an accident or traffic violation within the last 3 years. His premium for auto insurance coverage is $158 per year.

The case of Mr. B! Mr. B—in the center—is also married and with no children. Last year he had one chargeable accident. He also drives 7 miles to work each day. Mr. B's insurance premium is $199 per year.

The case of Mr. C! The man at right is also married and has a 17-year old son who completed a driver's training course. Neither Mr. C, his wife nor his son have had an accident or traffic violation. Mr. C pays $303 per year annual premium.

You can probably spot the reasons for the step-up in rates from that paid by Mr. A. They are — a chargeable accident, in the case of Mr. B—and the teenage driver in Mr. C's family. The rate you pay is determined by similar factors, some more complex than this simplified example. It is also determined by the rating area (Ohio has 30) in which you live, where rates are established on the basis of local accident and claims records.

The point is that there are logical reasons for the variance in premiums from driver to driver. Insurance involves the sharing of risks, but it also proportions the cost to the individual policyholder in terms of his driver classification.

The next time you renew your auto insurance, ask your agent for a full explanation of your policy. He'll be more than glad to discuss it because his job is to give you the best possible financial protection at the most reasonable rate.

(Rates based on $10,000/20,000 bodily injury, $5,000 property damage, $1,000 medical payments, comprehensive, $100 deductible collision, and uninsured motorists coverage.)

Peru - U.S. Problems Remain Despite Sidestep

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The United States and Peru have avoided a showdown for the time being, but major problems remain for both governments because their dispute still hangs fire.

For Peru the problems are economic-continued stagnation while hesitant foreign investors wait to see how the dispute is settled.

For the United States it is a matter of the perennial Latin American distrust of the big neighbor. While Washington has not applied economic sanctions, the threat remains, and Peruvian resentment against the "Yanquis" likely will grow and harden.

A showdown over the expropriation of the International Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, was deferred Monday when Washington announced IPC would start proceedings in Peru against the Lima government's claim for $690 million from the company.

A U.S. announcement said this procedure, together with current negotiations by special U.S. envoy John N. Irwin, constituted the "appropriate steps toward compensation" required by the Hickenlooper Amendment.

The economic sanctions thus were deferred pending the outcome of the IPC's appeal to Peru's Ministry of Energy and Mines. The ministry must rule on the case and leave time for a further appeal if necessary to President Juan Velasco by Aug. 6, six months from the day the huge IPC debt was alleged by Velasco.

A Peruvian communiqué said the revolutionary government "understands that while this situation lasts, credits which for some time have been suffering restrictions will be normalized." But American sources said they knew of no such assurance being given to the Peruvians.

Peruvian leaders have accused the Inter-American Development Bank of holding up

$12.5 million in credits for housing construction because of the IPC dispute. It also is known that large sums of private American capital are ready for investment in Peruvian copper and other mining ventures but these investors probably will wait to see what happens to IPC.

Such uncertainties have produced increasing unemployment, lack of new building ventures and other indicators of a sizeable business slump.

Rafael Cubas Vinata, president of the Christian Democratic party, said Monday the IPC dispute hangs over Peru's head like the Sword of Damocles. He was among several prominent persons who expressed dissatisfaction to Velasco about the Washington-Lima agreement.

of the National Alliance party, said: "The suspension is no solution... It becomes a suspension of supply of credit for activities of the country."

But Manuel Cisneros, chief of the Peruvian Democratic Movement, said: "It is satisfactory. We hope there will be no restriction of credits and we will soon know about that."

Newspapers that originally opposed the revolutionary government now are accusing the United States of threatening economic war, interfering in domestic matters and plotting the overthrow of the Peruvian government.

The influential newspaper La Prensa commented Monday, before the Washington-Lima agreement was known that an additional period of indefiniteness and suspense would give results almost as prejudicial as a declared application of the sanctions.

Five Points News

By Mrs. Francis Furniss

There were 107 present at the United Methodist Sunday School morning. A large crowd attended the Easter Sunrise service and breakfast at 6:30 Sunday morning. A large crowd also attended worship services and Amy Marie Finch, Sheri Lynn Rivers, Charles Brent Rivers, Bradley Allen Rivers and Sheri Lynn Eversole received the Sacrament of Baptism during the services.

Nineteen members of the Five Points United Methodist WSCS answered roll call by telling the county they were born in. When they met Wednesday evening in the church basement for their April meeting. The president, Mrs. Paul Moore opened the meeting and heard the various reports. Mrs. Richard Everman read "One Solitary Life" for our devotions. Mrs. Herman Porter, secretary read the report of the last meeting and Mrs. Francis Furniss treasurer gave the financial report. Plans were completed for the Easter Breakfast and committees were appointed to help. A letter was read concerning the Annual meeting at Walnut Street Methodist Church in Chillicothe on Wednesday, April, 23rd. Our Pledge was voted upon and sent to the treasurer, Mrs. Bennett.

Plans were made for the Stock Sale dinner to be held on April, 23 at Bowling Stockyards in Circleville.

Plans were also discussed for the Mother-Daughter Tea to be held on May 7th at 8 o'clock p.m. The meeting closed with an Easter Prayer by Mrs. Dorothy Tedrick. The program under the direction of Mrs. Austin Fuller and Mrs. George Kern opened with group singing, "What a Friend" with Charlynn Fuller at the piano. Mrs. Fuller read scripture from Romans 6:1-8. A duet "A Day of Rest and Gladness" was sung by Charlynn Fuller and Kelly Kern. Mrs. Fuller read, "A Church" and Keith Kern read, "If You Were God." A reading, "Not Me" by Charlynn Fuller and "God Has A Plan for Your Life," by Kelly Kern. George Kern read a thought and the program closed with "Ivory Palaces" by Charlynn and Kelly. Following the benediction lovely refreshments in keeping with the Easter Season were served to the nineteen members and four guests, Kelly, Keith and George Kern and Charlynn Fuller. Cards of cheer were signed by the group to be sent to Mrs. Etta Neff and Mrs. Scatia Follrod, members who are ill.

Community Area Council Holds Meet

The recently organized community council sponsored by PICCA (Pickaway County Community Action) has been named the Circleville Community Area Council.

Action was taken Monday night at the group's monthly meeting in St. Paul's AME Church basement.

Jake Bailey, president, explained the name is designed to represent all areas represented by the council, including York Street, Hayward Avenue, Lowery Lane and portions of East and South Circleville.

The group also made initial plans to acquire barrel drums to serve as trash containers. Members will paint the drums and place them in various sections.

In addition, seven persons were named block representatives to communicate the group's programs and meetings to the areas.

They are Raymond Sisterman, Mayo Davis, Larry Giffin, Thelma Sheets, Mary Pence, Sally Jones and May Belle Godby.

Brown Says Ohio Apportionment OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted Brown says the U. S. Supreme Court's decision Monday requiring equal apportionment of legislative and congressional districts would not affect Ohio.

On the basis of earlier Supreme Court rulings, Brown said he believed Ohio is now properly apportioned. He added that the Ohio House, Senate and congressional districts are scheduled to be reapportioned in 1971 after population figures become available from the 1970 federal census.

The decision by the high court Monday rejected the 1967 reapportionment of Missouri's congressional districts.

Summer Hopes Of SDS

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Summer "is icumen in," and pretty soon the ineffable Students for a Democratic Society, which doesn't believe in studying or democracy or, for that matter, any workable social order, will be issuing its plans for using vacation jobs to infiltrate industry. The SDSers, invoking one more variant of the tired cliché of the past four years, speak of a "summer work-in." They are not interested in working as such; they want to subvert old-line union men who have understandably preferred good wages to going out with the kids on the barricades.

Call it gall or call it chutzpah, the SDS, like Karl Marx a hundred and twenty years ago, pursues its objectives quite openly. Listen to this particular bit of effrontery:
"Job-seekers should try to get hired in places that have several hundred workers. Reasons for this include: (a) if we want to distribute literature, the potential is greater, (b) the larger the company, the better chance of a basic union, that the workers will have a sense of organization (even if the union is a sell-out one), that there will be a tie-in to workers nationally, (c) in large plants in national unions there is a better chance that workers will become part of (and have a history of) mass strike movements, rebellions against sell-out leadership, conflict with the government due to 'national interest' injunctions, which might create the basis for greater mutual exchange about questions relating to opposition to government policies, (d) the larger the company the likelier the existence of masses of unskilled jobs which we can fill, especially as replacements for workers taking vacations. If at all possible, choose a plant in the area of your school, to facilitate the possibility of worker-student alliances later on."

What all this means is that the SDS is prepared to exploit companies that are good enough to offer some experience to college boys. Gratitude, gratitude! I'm sure the union leaders will just love the boys for suggesting that the negotiation of high wage scales, the highest in the history of labor, constitutes a "sell-out." And I can picture the reaction of a worker in a defense factory when a student asks him to sabotage the war in which the worker's son may be engaged.
The Left, New or Old, has always been prey to the illusion that somehow the American worker is a poor judge of his interests. In the Twenties the Communists tried to promote this idea with something called "dual unionism." In the Thirties, when the Popular Front was the current sociological gimmick, the Communists infiltrated some of the basic unions. Now the Left is trying to use the student radicals to undermine the followers of George Meany and Walter Reuther.

The SDS has worked up its "work-in" plans before Richard Nixon won the election. Now that President Nixon is setting out to substitute a voluntary army for a draft army it may be difficult for the SDS to equate the Nixon war policies with the LBJ escalation. But never fear, the boys will be in there trying.

There is one welcome by-product of the SDS summer "work-in" movement, similar to the "Be Clean for Gene" by-product of last year's McCarthy campaign. The SDS warns the student job-seekers against dressing "like a slob or a hippie." It also warns the students against being "snobs." But what could be more snobbish than a summer jobholder who assumes that he has something the workers are just panting to hear?

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

I have good news for my constituents in the Northwest area of Columbus. The office of the Postmaster General informs me that a contract award has been made for a new post office station near Gettysburg Road on the north side of Henderson Road.

The estimated cost of the new station is $177,332 to be completed by January 18, 1970.

It will be a one story air conditioned building with parking facilities, and an interior space of 7,889 square feet. I am very pleased about the new Northwest Station. The facilities are badly needed, as evidenced by the volume of mail I have received from constituents concerning it.

Last week the nation paid its final and greatest tribute to Dwight David Eisenhower, the man best known to all as "Ike". Nearly 100,000 people filed past the General's coffin during the 24 hours it was in state at the National Cathedral, before it was taken to the Capitol Rotunda for memorial services on Sunday morning. Both House of Congress members as a body to the Rotunda, where President Nixon delivered a touching eulogy to the man he served well as Vice President for eight years. I think that a part of what the President said bears repeating.

"And with his own great qualities of heart, he personified the best in America. It is, I think, a special tribute to Dwight Eisenhower that, despite all of his great deeds and his triumphs, we find ourselves today thinking first, not of his deeds, but of his character."

"Dwight Eisenhower touched something fundamental in America which only a man of immense force of mind and spirit could have brought so vibrantly alive. He was a product of America's soil, and of its ideals, driven by a compulsion to do right and to do well, a man of deep faith who believed in God and trusted in His will, a man who truly loved his country and for whom words like freedom and democracy were not clichés — but they were living truths."

"His life reminds us that there is a moral force in this world more powerful than the might of arms, or the wealth of nations. This man who led the most powerful armies that the world has ever seen; this man who led the most powerful nation in the world; this essentially good and gentle and kind man — that moral force was his greatness."

On Monday I attended the funeral services for General Eisenhower at the National Cathedral. A notable list of dignitaries including French President De Gaulle, King Constantine of Greece, West Germany's Chancellor Kiesinger, and Vice President Ky of South Viet Nam represented their countries.

On Wednesday the funeral train bearing General Eisenhower's body completed its 1200 mile journey to Abilene, Kansas. There he was laid to rest in a place he selected near the two story white frame house where he grew up.

I would like to share with you a personal experience with General Eisenhower. In it we find further evidence of those

The House passed on a voice vote a bill to provide special pay to naval officers, qualified in submarine supervision, maintenance, and operation, who agree to remain in active submarine service for one period of four years beyond any other obligated active service.

The measure is designed to arrest and reverse a rapidly increasing rate of resignations by qualified nuclear submarine officers.

The Committee on Post Office and Civil Service's Subcommittee on Census and Statistics is currently hearing testimony from the Director of the Bureau of the Census, on the topic of the 1970 census questions.

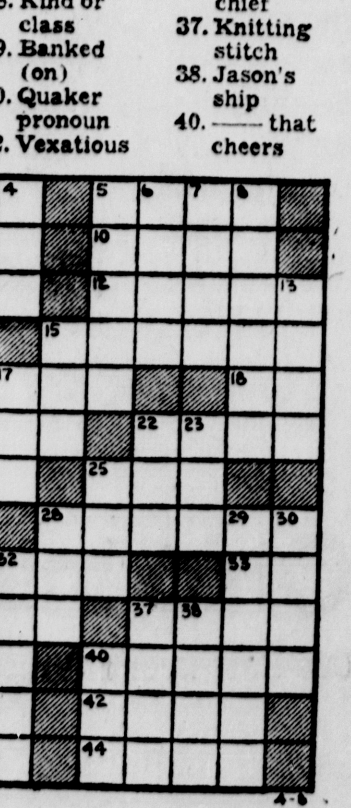

I have received constituent mail on this subject, and I am in accord with the principle of restricting any questions that violate the right of privacy. I will keep you informed on this matter.

We are pleased with the number of constituents who have "dropped by" our office during the past week. An invitation is extended to all of you who are visiting the Washington area to come by and say hello.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PLANE WAS ROARING through the air at 600 miles per hour when one motor conked, then a second, then a third, leaving only the fourth one functioning. That was the moment when the pilot stepped out of the cockpit, his parachute harnessed to his uniform, to reassure his passengers, "Not a thing to worry about, folks! I'm on my way down to seek help."

To the innumerable books detailing Napoleon's catastrophic defeat at Waterloo, David Howarth had just added another—and a very good and enjoyable one it is, too. Howarth himself admits, however, that his own favorite account of the historic drama is that of one small participating British infantryman who, on the morning after, remarked tersely, "I'll be hanged if I know anything about the matter. I was all day trodden in the mud and ridden over by every scoundrel who had a horse."

OVERHEARD:
Woman on a sight-seeing bus returning from Mount Vernon: "Did you notice, my dear, that every room in the house is furnished in Early American?"
Mayor to his city council: "I'm not saying those urban renewal people are putting the heat on us—but they've given our great old city three years to get out of town!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The health protection that is given to the American people by governmental agencies is frequently overlooked or unrecognized. In conjunction with the United States Public Health Service many legal rulings prevent the distribution of infected meats, a source of trichinosis. This parasitic disease is caused by Trichinella Spiralis, a round worm that exists in infected meat and meat products containing pork that is inadequately cooked.

There now are legal methods by which the government can actually move into a pork sausage factory and shut it down if there is any suspicion that this disease is being carried by its products. Trichinosis occurs everywhere in the world except perhaps in the tropics where pigs are fed root vegetables. It occurs in the United States in more instances than it should and frequently is found in communities where a particular distributor has been selling meat infested with this parasite.

There are a few rules that can protect against this condition. The most important, of course, is that all pork and pork products must be thoroughly cooked to kill the worm in any of its stages. The next is to know the reliability of the shop that sells the meat. This avoidable condition can be a source of protracted discomfort if unrecognized and untreated. It is a comfort to know that governmental agencies all over the country are constantly on the alert for outbreaks of these and other diseases. With remarkable detecting the source is almost always found and eradicated.

Many married women find that when their children are grown and self-sufficient, they need closer contact with the activities in the community. It is unfortunate that there is such a vast potential in well-trained mothers that goes to waste because their past-time availability is not used. It is well known that private industry, hospitals and governmental agencies need the power reserve of these women and have not been able to establish lines of communication that will search them out.

In a personal communication to me, Mrs. Margaret Schiffer brought to my attention a remarkable organization named Catalyst which serves to bridge the gap between the accomplished women who want to

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If you really want to impress guests at your daughter's wedding reception you might consider renting a champagne bubbler and a pair of ornate, five-branch silver candelabra. The total cost will be about $25.

Nobody but you will know the difference. And so, for no more than it would cost you and your spouse for a night on the town, a mere passing pleasure, you will have bought the permanent envy of your social competitors.

Such motives can't be discounted, but the $1 billion-a-year rental equipment industry, which boasts that it can rent you not just party goods but almost everything under the sun, believes it is far more soundly based.

The industry spread eastward gradually from the West Coast shortly after World War II.

Only in the past few years has it attained strong growth along the Eastern seaboard.
A typical general rental store, founded perhaps 20 years ago as a mom-and-pop operation, might find itself handling the following orders in the next few weeks and months:

— Supplying chairs, banquet tables, a bar, linen, china, glassware, silverware, a champagne fountain, coffee urns and incidental items for a graduation party of 50. One estimate of the cost: well under $200.
— Providing the equipment for homeowners to spruce up property. This might include tractors, power rakes and fillers for the lawn, and rug and floor care equipment for inside the house.

For a power rake, such as now being used on spring lawns, the charge might be $12 a half day or $19 a day from one firm. The same company charges $9 a day for a floor sander, one of its most popular items.

In almost every instance it is clear why people rent instead of buy.

The purchase price is too much, the item is not used often enough to justify purchase, the customer could not possibly service the item, or it simply could not be stored on the customer's premises.

But other factors make rentals, expanding at about 15 to 20 per cent a year, one of the fastest growing service industries. Among the factors:

— A rise in home ownership, along with a tendency of middle income homeowners to use their properties not just for shelter but for entertainment.

— The growth in leisure time, as more workers enjoy 37½-hour weeks, and increasingly work only 35 hours and even 30 hours.

— The continuing popularity of the do-it-yourself attitude, especially as the cost of professional home maintenance rises sharply.

If you exclude the revenue from rental cars—estimated to number about 250,000—the entire industry is believed to have revenues of at least $1 billion. It is so multifarious, however, that statistics sometimes are misleading.

Essentially, however, it remains an industry of individuals. Pat McMahon of Bayside, N.Y., might be typical. He began his company 15 years ago with $7,000 of tools.

Because business was slack in winter, McMahon added a party line, and now does a thriving late fall and early winter business. He still heads his operation, which now rents $250,000 to $300,000 of stock.

His annual gross revenue is about $350,000, he states, of which about 8 per cent is profit. And among the most profitable days, he feels, are those coming up.

Petula Clark

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She seems tiny, even frail, but when Petula Clark begins to sing, there is no mistaking her authority. Her admirers were able to see and hear their Pet last night when she starred in her second television special on NBC.

To casual listeners who heard her "Downtown" and other big selling records, Petula Clark seemed to be another teen-age favorite. Such an attitude riles the British singer, who pointed out that she was no rock 'n' roller but a performer who has appeared in cabarets and concert halls throughout Europe.

More recently she has added a new dimension to her career: movies. She can currently be seen with Fred Astaire in "Fanny's Rainbow." Coming up: "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" with Peter O'Toole.

Between tapings for Monday's special with guests Andy Williams, Oscar nominee Ron Moody and guitarist-singer Sacha Distel, Petula mused on how her own singing style has developed.

"It has changed a great deal in the past two or three years," she remarked. "Some of it has to do with what happens when you have a certain success, like 'Downtown.' Suddenly you have enough confidence to let yourself go, to relax and perform the way you would like to.

"But I think the change in my style began even before 'Downtown.' It really started when I spent some time singing in France."

The singer is married to a Frenchman, Claude Wolfe, and until recently they and their two children made their home in Paris. Now they reside in Geneva "because privacy isn't respected in France any more," as well as for tax advantages.

"Singing in France was especially good for my style," Petula said. "The French aren't very musical; they care more about the lyric than the melody. For that reason there aren't many good singers in France, but there are many excellent performers who know how to interpret songs. They seem to know how to get inside the meaning of the words."

"The simple matter of singing is only part of it. Anyone with a fair amount of voice can sing. The difference is in how you deliver the lyrics. That's what sets people like Frank Sinatra and Tony Bennett apart from the others. They seem able to digest their songs."

"If a singer can touch the audience, not only musically but with the meaning of a song as well, that's the real thrill."

Miss Groce, Mr. Frank Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. MICHAEL J. FRANK

Miss Suzanne Groce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Groce, Coshocton, and Michael J. Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frank of Lorain, were united in marriage 2:30 p.m. Saturday, March 22 in Grace United Methodist Church.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Groce, 447 E. Main St., and Mrs. Ray Graves, Route 3, Circleville.

Dr. Benjamin Lewis, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two vases of gladioli and chrysanthemums, and palms. A half-hour program of music preceding the exchange of vows was presented by Walter Crawford, organist, and Clarence Radcliffe, uncle of the bride, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of silk organza with Venice lace masking satin ribbon on the bodice. From the wattleau back, bands of the same Venice lace over satin ribbon extended down the chapel train.

An organza bow adorned with eight Venice lace daisies and seed pearls held her three-tiered elbow length bouffant veil. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white pompon chrysanthemums, white hybrid orchids, ivy and streamers, backed with a lace handkerchief (something old given to the bride by her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe). The bride's lince star sapphire and diamond necklace was a gift from the groom.

Miss Diana Groce, Columbus, served her sister as maid of honor, while bridesmaids were Misses Julie Hux and Darla Kifer, Columbus, classmates of the bride. Mrs. Joseph Rooney, cousin of the bride, was bridesmatron.

There's No Business Like Lunch Business

By ALICE DENHOFF

The celebrated "business lunch" is by no means limited to people who transact their business in big city restaurants. Many women in smaller communities have found the most efficient — and gracious way — to get things done for their school, church or club programs, is to invite a group for a noontime meal and discuss the business at hand as the meal progresses.

Keep It Simple

For such a meal, simplicity, combined with pleasing presentation should be the keynote. A tray of open sandwiches, Danish style, with a molded pickle relish, followed by a light, delicious dessert, serves the purpose perfectly and admirably. The table setting need be no more elaborate than a set of attractive plastic-coated paper plates available in a variety of colors and patterns.

To prepare the sandwiches, have ready thin slices of white, whole wheat, pumpernickel and rye. Ideas include canned shrimp piled on lightly buttered bread and topped with a lemon twist. For a delicious sandwich, spread bread with liver paste, top with sieved egg yolk, bacon slices and whole mushrooms. A sure-to-please choice is bread topped with canned lobster salad made with curry, mayonnaise and sprinkled with fresh dill.

For a more robust job, spread the bread with mayonnaise combined with horseradish as a resting spot for canned roast beef slices, bacon and crisply fried onion rings. Hard-cooked eggs topped with sardines is another excellent open-face sandwich special as is lightly buttered bread topped with sliced tongue, spread with mixed cooked vegetables.

The vegetables should be combined with mayonnaise and the whole thing sprinkled with capers. Now down to business — the mold that does well with the openers, the Danish sandwiches. It's a good, attractive: MOLDED PICKLE RELISH

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3-4 cup water, divided
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
3-4 cup salad dressing
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup finely chopped celery
1-4 cup finely chopped green pepper and chopped pimiento
1 cup drained pickle relish
Sprinkle gelatin over 1/2 cup of the cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatin is dissolved, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining cold water, lemon juice, salt and Tabasco. Cool. Gradually stir in the salad dressing and mustard until well blended. Mix in remaining ingredients. Turn into 4-cup mold or 8 individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold: serve as accompaniment with sandwiches or cold meat.

TWIN CHOCOLATE CHIFFON MOLDS

3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
3-4 teaspoon salt
2 cups evaporated milk
1 cup water
6 eggs
3 packages (6-ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 tablespoon vanilla
2 cups icy cold evaporated milk, whipped

Mix together gelatin, 3-4 cup of the sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in evaporated milk, water and egg yolks. Add chocolate morsels. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and chocolate is melted. Add vanilla. Remove from heat; beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Cool until mixture is chilled and mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add remaining sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Fold in whipped evaporated milk. Turn into 2 8-cup loaf pans or molds; chill until firm. Unmold if desired and garnish with whipped cream. This serves 16. Serve one mold at the luncheon and treat the family to the other, a beautiful bonus.

To whip evaporated milk, chill milk in refrigerator freezer tray until crystals form around the edges. Turn into chilled bowl and whip with rotary beater or on high speed of electric mixer until milk is stiff.

This is a truly delightful, delicate dessert, well worth the effort.

Dance Party Fetes Birthday

Della Diane Stapleton was honored with a party on her birthday Thursday evening in the K of P hall in Stoutsville. Highlighting the event was music provided by the Manic Depression, a local band.

The celebrant greeted guests at the door decorated with streamers and balloons. A false ceiling of twisted streamers, balloons and psychedelic posters on the walls illuminated by the band lights, transformed the room for dancing.

Games were played and dance contests held. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Polly Stapleton and Mrs. Esther Stout.

Members of the band were Mike Mills, Julian Parker, Jim Ramey and Rick Stout.

Guests were Karen Tiller, Vicki Good, Barbara Lutz, Karen Miller, Kenny Hinton, Debbie Mosley, David Parker, Joyce Smith, Valerie Fausnaugh, Debbie Haughey, Dave Stebelton, Steve Cordle, Ric Knotts, Dennis Rose, Mel Dickson.

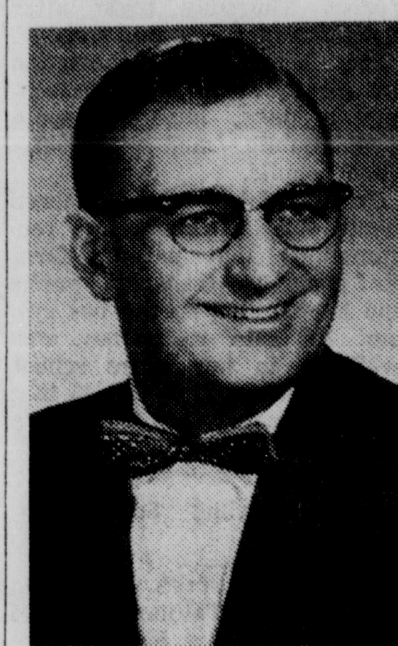

Vicki McHale, Bobby Yingling, Rick Daniels, Lisa Carroll, Mark Garrett, Don Hickman, Gary Rainier, Debbie Purdue, Debbie Rhyme, Bill Young, Cindy Hyme, Carol Swain, Vicki Johnson and Denise Woods.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The United States and Peru have avoided a showdown for the time being, but major problems remain for both governments because their dispute still hangs fire.

For Peru the problems are economic-continued stagnation while hesitant foreign investors wait to see how the dispute is settled.

For the United States it is a matter of the perennial Latin American distrust of the big neighbor. While Washington has not applied economic sanctions, the threat remains, and Peruvian resentment against the "Yanquis" likely will grow and harden.

A showdown over the expropriation of the International Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, was deferred Monday when Washington announced IPC would start proceedings in Peru against the Lima government's claim for $690 million from the company.

A U.S. announcement said this procedure, together with current negotiations by special U.S. envoy John N. Irwin, constituted the "appropriate steps toward compensation" required

Community Area Council Holds Meet

The recently organized community council sponsored by PICCA (Pickaway County Community Action) has been named the Circleville Community Area Council.

Action was taken Monday night at the group's monthly meeting in St. Paul's AME Church basement.

Jake Bailey, president, explained the name is designed to represent all areas represented by the council, including York Street, Hayward Avenue, Lowery Lane and portions of East and South Circleville.

The group also made initial plans to acquire barrel drums to serve as trash containers. Members will paint the drums and place them in various sections.

In addition, seven persons were named block representatives to communicate the group's programs and meetings to the areas.

Brown Says Ohio Apportioned OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted Brown says the U. S. Supreme Court's decision Monday requiring equal apportionment of legislative and congressional districts would not affect Ohio.

On the basis of earlier Supreme Court rulings, Brown said he believed Ohio is now properly apportioned. He added that the Ohio House, Senate and congressional districts are scheduled to be reapportioned in 1971 after population figures become available from the 1970 federal census.

The decision by the high court Monday rejected the 1967 reapportionment of Missouri's congressional districts.

Peru - U.S. Problems Remain Despite Sidestep

The economic sanctions thus were deferred pending the outcome of the IPC's appeal to Peru's Ministry of Energy and Mines. The ministry must rule on the case and leave time for a further appeal if necessary to President Juan Velasco by Aug. 6, six months from the day the huge IPC debt was alleged by Velasco.

A Peruvian communique said the revolutionary government "understands that while this situation lasts, credits which for some time have been suffering restrictions will be normalized." But American sources said they knew of no such assurance being given to the Peruvians.

Peruvian leaders have accused the Inter-American Development Bank of holding up

$12.5 million in credits for housing construction because of the IPC dispute. It also is known that large sums of private American capital are ready for investment in Peruvian copper and other mining ventures but these investors probably will wait to see what happens to IPC.

Such uncertainties have produced increasing unemployment, lack of new building ventures and other indicators of a sizeable business slump.

Rafael Cubas Vinata, president of the Christian Democratic party, said Monday the IPC dispute hangs over Peru's head like the Sword of Damocles. He was among several prominent persons who expressed dissatisfaction to Velasco about the Washington-Lima agreement.

of the National Falcange party, said: "The suspension is no solution... It becomes a suspension of supply of credit for activities of the country."

But Manuel Cisneros, chief of the Peruvian Democratic Movement, said: "It is satisfactory. We hope there will be no restriction of credits and we will soon know about that."

Newspapers that originally opposed the revolutionary government now are accusing the United States of threatening economic war, interfering in domestic matters and plotting the overthrow of the Peruvian government.

The influential newspaper La Prensa commented Monday, before the Washington-Lima agreement was known that an additional period of indefiniteness and suspense would give results almost as prejudicial as a declared application of the sanctions."

DAM GOOD WORK—Joseph Strub, head of the Twin Cities weather bureau, warned communities in Minnesota that record or near record floods are expected when the spring thaw lets go. So residents of Mankato, Minn., covered part of U.S. 169 as they constructed a 15-foot high clay dike in the area where the Minnesota and Mankato Rivers merge, always one of the first spots to be flooded.

Americans May See Apollo Mission Via Color Camera

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Space officials say there is better than a 50-50 chance that the descent of two Apollo 10 astronauts toward the moon next month will be seen on home television in live color.

It all depends on whether the first color TV camera designed for a manned spaceship will be ready in time for Apollo 10s scheduled May 18 liftoff.

With two black-and-white TV cameras also aboard, Apollo 10 is expected to be the most televised flight yet.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Sta-ford, Apollo 10 commander, said, "I am pushing hard" to get the color TV camera aboard.

"If we do, you'll see lots of pictures, including some of the lunar module (LEM) undocking and starting the descent," he said.

Plans call for the LEM to approach within five miles of the lunar surface. A landing will not be attempted.

The camera—to be carried inside Apollo 10's three-man command ship—could also be used to show color pictures of earth from the vicinity of the moon and from various distances between earth and moon.

Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan are to uncouple the LEM from the command ship in moon orbit, then pilot the spidery craft on its descent.

Inside the command ship, Navy Cmdr. John W. Young could aim the color camera to show the departing LEM with the moon in the background about 70 miles below.

Equipped with a zoom lens, having a variable focal length, the camera could show the LEM at considerable distances from the command ship and give close-up views of the lunar surface, officials said.

"The color should be great—as good if not better than any standard color television seen," said Stanley Lebar, program manager for the Westinghouse Electric Corp., builder of the color camera.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

A second day of fine sunny weather greeted Ohioans Tuesday with temperatures a few degrees above Monday's.

The coolest point in the state Monday was Cleveland, where winds off Lake Erie held readings around 60. Cincinnati was the warmest spot with 75 degrees. Today's highs were to range from the 60s to near 80 along the Ohio River.

A low pressure area moving in from the west is expected to bring showers to western Ohio by morning. These will spread across the state Wednesday with temperatures in the 60s and 70s. Lows tonight under an increasing cloud cover will generally be in the 50s.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight with showers beginning west by Wednesday morning, spreading over the state by evening. Lows tonight in the upper 40s and 50s. A little cooler west Wednesday. Highs in the 60s and 70s.

EAST CENTRAL, CENTRAL AND SOUTHEAST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight. Lows in the upper 40s and 50s. Cloudy and continued warm Wednesday with afternoon showers. Highs in the 70s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight with a chance of showers near morning. Lows in the 50s. Showers and a little cooler Wednesday. Highs in the 70s.

Neurosurgeons Set Meet In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,000 neurosurgeons from the United States and 35 other countries are expected in Cleveland for a five-day meeting of the American Association of Neurological Surgeons. The meeting, being held in association with the American Society of Neuro-Radiology, begins Sunday at the Hotel Sheraton-Cleveland.

Solons Eye Crime Funds

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three legislators say they want clarification of the state's policy of distributing federal funds under the Safe Streets and Crime Control Act.

Rep. William McCulloch, 4th District Republican congressman from Piqua, State Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-2 Findlay, and State Rep. Walter White, R-6, Lima, met Monday with Allen County commissioners and Lima city officials to discuss the funds.

"The way they are going," said Guyer, "we will have enough money to get two additional township constables and a half-dead police dog."

"It was not the intent of Congress to see funds go piecemeal to each government subdivision, but rather to be used to coordinate law enforcement activities," McCulloch said.

Lima Mayor Christian Morris and county commissioners have opposed the Council of Government concept which would include Allen County with nine rural counties which have not experienced civil disturbances.

Ray Blasts Ex-Lawyers, Officially Asks New Trial

MEMPHIS (AP) — James Earl Ray, contending that two of his lawyers were more interested in financial gains than his fate, has officially asked for a new trial in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

In a petition filed Monday Ray said he was "pressured" into a March 10 guilty plea because a trial would have made the facts a "matter of public record for the free use of all" and would have endangered the success of a projected book and movie.

Ray was represented first by Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, an attorney he fired in November, and then by Percy Foreman of Houston, who arranged a 99-year sentence in exchange for the guilty plea.

The motion said Foreman "pressured him, and he, the defendant, under duress due to this pressure, entered a plea of 'guilty' for 'the sole financial gain of the said attorney.'"

Attached to the petition were letters and agreements involving Ray, author William Bradford Huie of Hartselle, Ala., who is writing a book about Ray and negotiating movie rights, Hanes and Foreman.

No date has been set for a hearing on the motion. The attorney general's office has said that Ray would be returned from his maximum security cell in the penitentiary in Nashville to Memphis for any such hearings.

The motion was filed by three men listed as attorneys for Ray — Richard J. Ryan of Memphis, J. B. Stoner of Savannah, Ga., and Robert W. Hill Jr. of Chattanooga.

Defection Reported

TOKYO (AP) — Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency reported today that a 19-year-old Marine, Pfc. John F. Lowmyer of Brooklyn, N.Y., defected to the Viet Cong on Feb. 22 because it said he opposed the war in Vietnam.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Petula Clark has a big, professional voice and manner that accompanies, surprisingly, her Mary Pickford looks and happy, ingenuitous manner.

In an NBC special Monday night, she was surrounded by attractive people including Andy Williams and Sasha Disiel, provided with some stunning clothes to wear and given pleasant and largely familiar songs to sing. There was nothing really wrong with "Portrait of Petula," but the show somehow never really got off the ground, never really demanded the attention of the viewer.

The show probably would have been more impressive a couple of seasons back since it was a nice, respectable, bland hour of tuneless relaxation. But we have become accustomed to more—a point of view, a sharp quality, and the pepper and salt was as much missed as it would have been in a soup or a stew.

Which brings us to the most recent program of those spicy

Smothers Brothers—the program that was pulled out of the CBS lineup Sunday night after their CBS contract had been terminated abruptly.

There was a press conference in New York Monday at which Tom Smothers amplified at great length his attitudes toward the right of free expression and his objection to censorship. Eventually, a tape of the canceled show was played for the assembled press. As it turned out, it was one of the brightest, most amusing programs of the series—yet it took no particular genius to see why it made CBS executives nervous.

David Steinberg, the comedy monologist who starred in a controversial sketch about Jonah and the whale is a clever, funny fellow. His sketch had Jonah swallowed by a giant guppy instead of a whale. It was amusing all right, but unless you were in the right mood, the Biblical sketch could have carried a certain shock value, particularly on Easter.

There was also a continuing gag between Tom Smothers and Dan Rowan, a guest star, which would have been impossible to edit out. It had them presenting "Laugh-ins" Flying Fickle Finger of Fate award to Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island, a sharp critic of TV violence. It was funny but it might have been offensive to a senator interested in television affairs and without much of a show business background.

The production numbers, particularly one with Nancy Wilson and the windup on with the dancers, were especially imaginative. It seems a shame that the public will never, in all probability, see the show and make individual judgments.

Meanwhile, the termination of the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" after two more shows may find the network with a summer replacement hole to fill on short notice. But at least it is all set with a fill-in for the "Carol Burnett Show." Recording star Jimmie Rodgers will headline a summer series starting June 16, backed up by Burnett show regular Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner, with Carol's husband, Joe Hamilton, as executive producer.

7 More Ohioans Die In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported Monday that two more Ohioans have been killed in recent action in Vietnam.

They were Army Specs. 4 Charles R. Cunningham of Cincinnati and Dennis R. Knoch of Carrollton.

Two other Ohioans, Army Spec. 5 Howard E. Yost Jr. of Newark and Army Pfc. Willie J. Siegler of Cleveland, were changed from the list of missing to dead of hostile causes.

Listed as dead not as a result of hostile action were Army Pfc. Charles D. Mosser of East Liverpool, Marine 1st Lt. Thomas A. Ross of Akron and Marine Lance Cpl. James M. Huff of Wedsworth.

Miss Groce, Mr. Frank Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. MICHAEL J. FRANK

Miss Suzanne Groce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Groce, Coshocton, and Michael J. Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frank of Lorain, were united in marriage 2:30 p.m. Saturday, March 22 in Grace United Methodist Church.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Groce, 447 E. Main St., and Mrs. Ray Graves, Route 3, Circleville.

Dr. Benjamin Lewis, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two vases of gladioli and chrysanthemums, and palms. A half-hour program of music preceding the exchange of vows was presented by Walter Crawford, organist and Clarence Radcliffe, uncle of the bride, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of silk organza with Venice lace masking satin ribbon on the bodice. From the waist back, bands of the same Venice lace over satin ribbon extended down the chapel train.

An organza bow adorned with eight Venice lace daisies and seed pearls held her three-tiered elbow length bouffant veil. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white pompon chrysanthemums, white hybrid orchid, ivy and streamers, backed with a lace handkerchief (something old given to the bride by her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe). The bride's lince star sapphire and diamond necklace was a gift from the groom.

Miss Diana Groce, Columbus, served her sister as maid of honor, while bridesmaids were Misses Julie Hux and Darla Kifer, Columbus, classmates of the bride. Mrs. Joseph Rooney, cousin of the bride, was bridesmatron.

Their identical aqua gowns featured wedding ring necklines, sleeveless empire bodices and A-line skirts. Venice lace blossoms in white and aqua accented the waistlines. Aqua Dior bows with matching veiling formed their headpieces, and each carried an arrangement of white and yellow chrysanthemums with lace ribbon.

John Burns, Columbus, fraternity brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Lawrence Frank, New Orleans, La., brother of the groom; Jeffrey Belford, Cleveland Heights and Robert Sullivan, Columbus, fraternity brother of the groom.

Mrs. Groce wore a gold silk shantung dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother chose a long sleeved dress of baby blue crepe with white lace coat and matching accessories. Cymbidium orchids formed their corsages.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlor. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with double bells and flanked with candelabra, fern, aqua and white mums.

Hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe, Circleville; aunt of the bride; Miss Ann Skinner, Springfield; Miss Susan Frank, Lorain; Miss Barbara Drake, Columbus; Miss Ruth Harstine, Coshocton, and Mrs. Jeffrey Hostetler, Columbus. The guest book was in charge of Mrs. Richard Cusin, Coshocton.

The new Mrs. Frank is a student at Ohio State University Hospital School of Radiology. Her husband, a senior student at Ohio State, studies administrative science and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Atwood Lodge at New Philadelphia, the bride was wearing a gray and white dress with matching coat, black patent leather accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

The newlyweds now reside at 35 W. Duncan, Apt. 15, Columbus.

Out-of-town guests were from Pittsburgh, Dearborn, Detroit, New Orleans, Seattle, Cincinnati, Lorain, Circleville and Columbus.

Junior Women's Club Plans CARE Project

The Circleville Junior Women's Club held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Roger Bennington, 650 Ridgewood Drive. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Robert Hedges, Mrs. Earl Wolfe and Mrs. Theodore West.

CARE Day Chairman, Mrs. William Fisher, announced that the club will collect money for CARE on Saturday, May 3. Money collected is used to buy farm supplies and equipment for people in the Philippines.

Mrs. James Rae, club president, announced that this year's convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs will be held June 1 and 2 in Cleveland. Several club members will attend this convention.

Mrs. Joseph Smith reported on the Legislation Day meeting held recently in Nelsonville, Ohio.

The club members voted on next year's slate of officers. Elected were Mrs. Joseph Smith, president; Mrs. Robert Holycross, vice-president; Mrs. Ronald Berlin, recording secretary; Mrs. Anthony Contino, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Robert Liggett, treasurer.

The following guests were introduced, Mrs. Larry Nelson, Mrs. Charles Orr, and Mrs. Ronald Winkler. After the meeting George Hamrick spoke about lawn and garden care.

Mrs. Rittinger Honored With Baby Shower

Mrs. Marvin Rittinger was honored with a baby shower recently in the home of Mrs. Shelby Dye, 209 Meadow Drive. Mrs. Charles Rittinger was co-hostess for the event.

Games were played with the winners presenting the prizes to the honored guest.

Gifts were placed on a table decorated with a miniature baby carriage.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by the hostesses.

Guests were Mrs. Roy Rittinger, Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger, Mrs. Steven Rittinger, Mrs. Gene Wright, Mrs. Orville Gifford, Mrs. David Dumm, Mrs. Harry Wright, Mrs. William Hildenbrand, Mrs. Robert Lloyd, Mrs. Austin Wilson.

Miss Hazel Dumm, Mrs. Marvin Dumm, Mrs. Robert Valentine, Mrs. Frank Mace Sr., Mrs. Forrest Hopkins, Mrs. Charlie D. Nichols, Mrs. Larry Beougher, Mrs. Charles Wellman, Mrs. Samuel Dearth, Mrs. Wells Wilson, Mrs. George K. Wright and Mrs. John Moss Sr.

Sending gifts were Mrs. Stephen Drew, Mrs. Robert Bauer, Miss Alda Bartley and Mrs. Arthur Gifford.

Silent Auction Planned By Myers Circle

Myers Circle of Community United Methodist Church will have a silent auction and brunch Thursday in the home of Mrs. William Myers, 560 Lawnwood Court.

The meeting will begin 9:30 a.m. Baby sitting will be provided at the church. Articles for the sale are to be delivered to the home of Mrs. Myers before 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

There's No Business Like Lunch Business

By ALICE DENHOFF

The celebrated "business lunch" is by no means limited to people who transact their business in big city restaurants. Many women in smaller communities have found the most efficient — and gracious way — to get things done for their school, church or club programs, is to invite a group for a noontime meal and discuss the business at hand as the meal progresses.

Keep It Simple

For such a meal, simplicity, combined with pleasing presentation should be the keynote. A tray of open sandwiches, Danish style, with a molded pickle relish, followed by a light, delicious dessert, serves the purpose perfectly and admirably. The table setting need be no more elaborate than a set of attractive plastic-coated paper plates available in a variety of colors and patterns.

To prepare the sandwiches, have ready thin slices of white, whole wheat, pumpernickel and rye. Ideas include canned shrimp piled on lightly buttered bread and topped with a lemon twist. For a delicious sandwich, spread bread with liver paste, top with sieved egg yolk, bacon slices and whole mushrooms. A sure-to-please choice is bread topped with canned lobster salad made with curry mayonnaise and sprinkled with fresh dill.

For a more robust job, spread the bread with mayonnaise combined with horseradish as a resting spot for canned roast beef slices, bacon and crisply fried onion rings. Hard-cooked eggs topped with sardines is another excellent open-face sandwich special as is lightly buttered bread topped with sliced tongue, spread with mixed cooked vegetables.

The vegetables should be combined with mayonnaise and the whole thing sprinkled with capers. Now down to business — the mold that goes well with the openers, the Danish sandwiches. It's a good, attractive:

MOLDED PICKLE RELISH

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3-4 cup water, divided
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
3-4 cup salad dressing
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup finely chopped celery
1-4 cup finely chopped green pepper and chopped pimiento
1 cup drained pickle relish
Sprinkle gelatin over 1/2 cup of the cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatin is dissolved, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining cold water, lemon juice, salt and Tabasco. Cool. Gradually stir in the salad dressing and mustard until well blended. Mix in remaining ingredients. Turn into 4-cup mold or 8 individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold; serve as accompaniment with sandwiches or cold meat.

TWIN CHOCOLATE CHIFFON MOLDS

3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
3-4 teaspoon salt
2 cups evaporated milk
1 cup water
6 eggs
3 packages (4-ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 tablespoon vanilla
2 cups icy cold evaporated milk, whipped

Mix together gelatin, 3-4 cup of the sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in evaporated milk, water and egg yolks. Add chocolate morsels. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and chocolate is melted. Add vanilla. Remove from heat; beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Cool until mixture is chilled and mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add remaining sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Fold in whipped evaporated milk. Turn into 2 8-cup loaf pans or molds; chill until firm. Unmold if desired and garnish with whipped cream. This serves 16. Serve one mold at the luncheon and treat the family to the other, a beautiful bonus.

To whip evaporated milk, chill milk in refrigerator freezer tray until crystals form around the edges. Turn into chilled bowl and whip with rotary beater or on high speed of electric mixer until milk is stiff.

This is a truly delightful, delicate dessert, well worth the effort.

Dance Party Fetes Birthday

Della Diane Stapleton was honored with a party on her birthday Thursday evening in the K of P hall in Stoutsville. Highlighting the event was music provided by the Manic Depression, a local band.

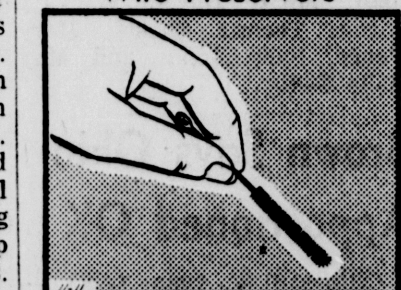

The celebrant greeted guests at the door decorated with streamers and balloons. A false ceiling of twisted streamers, balloons and psychedelic posters on the walls illuminated by the band lights, transformed the room for dancing.

Games were played and dance contests held. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Polly Stapleton and Mrs. Esther Stout.

Members of the band were Mike Mills, Julian Parker, Jim Ramey and Rick Stout.

Land Bought For Highland Reservoir

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state has bought one tract of land and has a price set on five others for the 11,415-acre Paint Creek Reservoir in Highland County.

Melvin J. Rehholz, chief of the Division of Parks and Recreation, said the State Controlling Board has released money for 785 acres.

It has yet to release funds for another 439 acres to be purchased by the state. The remainder will be bought by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The division in January bought 106.49 acres from Naomi Roads for $55,000. Another plot in the same tract currently is tied up in court proceedings and a third is in negotiations.

A total of $144,200 was released to buy the 245 acres in the tract.

Of the $267,000 released April 4 to buy eight properties, Rehholz said five owners have agreed upon price.

They include David Gray, 59.86 acres, $20,000; C. R. Jones, 110.43 acres, $37,500; J. R. Smith, 3.09 acres, $5,000; Don Wise, 5.34 acres, $12,500, and Walter Felson 90 acres, $43,000.

Three other properties in the same tract are in negotiations, reported Deputy Finance Director Otto Stock.

Mexico Starts Selecting President

By PAUL H. FINCH
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico has begun its unique process of picking its next president. It is a quiet and dignified maneuvering for position among top members of the party which has ruled the country for 40 years, the PRI.

Those are the Spanish initials for the Revolutionary Institutional party. Its candidate always wins.

None of the presumed contenders for the presidency has made an impassioned speech urging radical changes in government policy. It just isn't done.

A few magazines openly speculate on the running form of the serious possibilities. But newspapers and broadcasters generally confine coverage to the overt activities of the politicians. Some times these activities are clues to the race.

"We have ended bossism in the country," says Alfonso Martinez Dominguez, PRI president. "There is no more demagoguery and political filibustering." There is plenty of debate, however, in coffee shops, cocktail parties, lunches and other social gatherings on the merits of the contenders.

The two inside terms are "tapado," meaning the "covered one" to be announced by the PRI as its candidate next September, and "quemado," or "burned one," a contender who slipped up somehow.

The mystery of the guessing game seems to be enjoyed by the man in the street. Its been going on every six years since the various parties formed during the 1910 revolution decided to bury their differences and form PRI.

There are various clues: who is closest to incumbent President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz; who has demonstrated the most administrative ability; and who has the most political skill at avoiding damaging controversy.

"No one who ever took part in the actual selection of the next president has ever talked about it," says one Mexican political science professor. "So it isn't generally known how the 'tapado' is picked. But it is certain that the incumbent president has the most say."

When the man is named the real presidential campaign will be over except for the formality of the July 1970 elections. However, the PRI candidate will give all appearances of running a race against candidates from minor parties, such as the National Action party (PAN).

Among the leading PRI contenders to succeed Diaz Ordaz are:

—Luis Echeverria, 55-year old secretary of interior, a close friend of the president and holder of the job that Diaz Ordaz held himself when he was named "tapado." However, some observers feel he may be "quemado" because of his firm handling of the 1968 student riots in which dozens were slain. These observers say his nomination might provoke further riots.

—Antonio Carrillo Flores, secretary of foreign relations and well-known as a pro-American diplomat. Among his past posts was that of ambassador to Washington. Some say his only liability is his public pro-Americanism.

Other possibilities include Jose Gil Precado, a professor and currently secretary of agriculture; Alfonso Morones Prieto, director of the huge Social Security Institute; and Enrique Emilio Martinez Manautou, private secretary to Diaz Ordaz.

No matter who is chosen, no major shifts are expected in a program of industrializing the country; of encouraging U.S. tourism to help finance that program; and of following a middle-of-the road policy of social progress.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Crumpled Petals' Bother Bachelor

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, a bachelor, and a college graduate. I recently returned to this town to head my late father's business. I have been decorated in combat and have seen my share of the world, and now I am ready to settle down for the right girl.

Finding a desirable mate among wet-nosed college co-eds, divorcees, and town tramps is virtually impossible.

Nonetheless, there is one who has become rather special. We dated in high school. She was the local beauty queen and is still very attractive. However, she is divorced and has two children.

I could care for this woman, and the question of marriage has crossed my mind, but in my present business position I shudder at the thought of shackling myself with children who aren't mine, and a "second-hand Rose" with crumpled petals.

S.O.S.

DEAR S. O. S.: Sounds to me as tho the little lady has already had her share of headaches, so give her a break and look further for a mate. If you regard a divorcee as a "second-hand Rose with crumpled petals" and admit that you can't accept another man's children as your own, this woman is not for you.

DEAR ABBY: We have many children in our neighborhood who have B. B. guns. One 14-year-old started coming into my yard to shoot birds, and I saw him handling his gun in a very irresponsible manner. I called his mother and told her if her son was going to use a gun, he should go to the YMCA and take a course in the proper handling of firearms. She told me he KNEW how to handle a gun, yet I've seen him pumping his gun with the barrel pointed toward his head. I then told her that since I have children who are six and eight, whose playmates come over a lot, I didn't want her boy in my yard with his gun. (One child had already suffered a chipped tooth from a shot in the mouth.)

Well, the next time I saw the boy in my yard with his gun I called the police. Not out of anger, but out of concern for his own safety as well as the safety of others. I didn't sign a complaint. I just told the officer to talk to him.

Now the boy's mother is furious with me. She said I should not have called the police, that I should have called her again, instead, Abby. I like this woman. If you say I'm wrong, I'll apologize.

MRS. H. DERBY, KAS
DEAR MRS. H.: No apologies are necessary. I think your neighbor should send you a dozen sunflowers.

DEAR ABBY: Well, gal, I must admit you've got it. My hubby reads your column before he even looks at the rest of the paper.

For years I've had a problem I couldn't seem to solve. You see, John is a swell guy, but he hates water like a cat does, and I just couldn't get him to take a bath even once a week. Well, one day I said, "John, if you don't start taking a bath once a week I am going to consult Abby." Wham! He was in the tub like a flash.

So chalk up this woman as one of your biggest admirers. No name, please. John would have a fit.

Antitrust Rule Handed Down By Justices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday forbade large corporations to condition lending of money on the customer's promise to buy goods only from them.

The 5-4 ruling extends the reach of federal antitrust law. The court directly outlawed a tying agreement used by the credit subsidiary of U.S. Steel Corp.

The subsidiary, U.S. Steel Homes Credit Corp., had insisted in a 1960 loan agreement with a Louisville developer, Fortner Enterprises, Inc., that Fortner agree to buy 219 prefabricated house packages for a minimum of $678,900.

The loan and loan commitments were in excess of $2.5 million.

Fortner told the court it found "defects" in the prefabricated house, but Credit Corp. would not permit Fortner to put conventional houses on its subdivision.

A federal court in Louisville dismissed Fortner's antitrust suit in 1966. Last April the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati agreed, so Fortner appealed to the Supreme Court.

Governor Grants

Execution Stay To Lee Henley

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes Monday granted a stay of execution until May 16 for condemned slayer Lee Arthur Henley of Cincinnati.

Henley, 23, was scheduled to die in the electric chair Friday, April 11.

The stay was granted to allow Henley's attorneys to file a post conviction appeal action with the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, prison warden Harold J. Cardwell said.

Henley was convicted in the 1964 shotgun slaying of a carry-out clerk in Cincinnati. Earlier, Rhodes had overruled a state parole board recommendation that Henley's death set sentence be commuted.

Justice Douglas To Speak At CWRU

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is to speak before the Student Bar Association of the Case Western Reserve University Law School this Friday night.

Douglas is scheduled to speak on "The Individual and His Infirmity Worth," and then answer questions.

GI Starts Trip Home With Girl

SAIGON (AP)—The American GI and the tiny Vietnamese girl began a long journey to the United States Sunday with a pedicab ride to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

They were Spc. 4 John C. Dembrosky of Bethlehem, Pa., and his adopted daughter Chau Tri Phuc of the Mekong Delta.

Dembrosky spent his Army tour in Vietnam with the 9th Signal Battalion 3th Infantry Division. He and his wife had no children of their own, and soon after he arrived in the Delta he began taking part in his unit's civic action program at the Catholic children's orphanage in the province capital of My Tho. There he met 3-year-old Chau Tri, now renamed Carla Sue.

The soldier visited the girl every Sunday and began the long process of acquiring adoption papers for her. Regulations stated Dembrosky had to be Roman Catholic, married and cleared by both U.S. authorities and the South Vietnamese government.

A chaplain in the 9th Division devoted many hours to help clear bureaucratic channels. Six months later the girl legally became Carla Sue Dembrosky.

They plan to live in Allentown, Pa., where Dembrosky's wife makes her home.

Hysteria In Chickens Similar To Humans

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP)—Scientists say hysteria in chicken flocks is caused by some of the same things that might trigger hysteria in humans—social pressures, pain and fear. Besides being noisy, hysterical chickens often kill themselves and one another.

Speakers at the Washington State University Poultrymen's Institute recommend the combination of diet supplements and soft talk to pacify pullets who might otherwise take a cackling, clawing, flying leap off the feed end.

DAM GOOD WORK—Joseph Strub, head of the Twin Cities weather bureau, warned communities in Minnesota that record or near record floods are expected when the spring thaw lets go. So residents of Mankato, Minn., covered part of U.S. 169 as they constructed a 15-foot high clay dike in the area where the Minnesota and Mankato Rivers merge, always one of the first spots to be flooded.

Americans May See Apollo Mission Via Color Camera

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Space officials say there is better than a 50-50 chance that the descent of two Apollo 10 astronauts toward the moon next month will be seen on home television in live color.

It all depends on whether the first color TV camera designed for a manned spaceship will be ready in time for Apollo 10's scheduled May 18 liftoff.

With two black-and-white TV cameras also aboard, Apollo 10 is expected to be the most televised flight yet.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, Apollo 10 commander, said, "I am pushing hard" to get the color TV camera aboard.

"If we do, you'll see lots of pictures, including some of the lunar module (LEM) undocking and starting the descent," he said.

Plans call for the LEM to approach within five miles of the lunar surface. A landing will not be attempted.

The camera—to be carried inside Apollo 10's three-man command ship—could also be used to show color pictures of earth from the vicinity of the moon

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

A second day of fine sunny weather greeted Ohioans Tuesday with temperatures a few degrees above Monday's.

The coolest point in the state Monday was Cleveland, where winds off Lake Erie held readings around 60. Cincinnati was the warmest spot with 75 degrees. Today's highs were to range from the 60s to near 80 along the Ohio River.

A low pressure area moving in from the west is expected to bring showers to western Ohio by morning. These will spread across the state Wednesday with temperatures in the 60s and 70s. Lows tonight under an increasing cloud cover will generally be in the 50s.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight with showers beginning west by Wednesday morning, spreading over the state by evening. Lows tonight in the upper 40s and 50s. A little cooler west Wednesday. Highs in the 60s and 70s.

EAST CENTRAL, CENTRAL AND SOUTHEAST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight. Lows in the upper 40s and 50s. Cloudy and continued warm Wednesday with afternoon showers. Highs in the 70s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight with a chance of showers near morning. Lows in the 50s. Showers and a little cooler Wednesday. Highs in the 70s.

Ray Blasts Ex-Lawyers, Officially Asks New Trial

MEMPHIS (AP) — James Earl Ray, contending that two of his lawyers were more interested in financial gains than his fate, has officially asked for a new trial in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

In a petition filed Monday Ray said he was "pressured" into a March 10 guilty plea because a trial would have made the facts a "matter of public record for the free use of all" and would have endangered the success of a projected book and movie.

Ray was represented first by Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, an attorney he fired in November, and then by Percy Foreman of Houston, who arranged a 99-year sentence in exchange for the guilty plea.

The motion said Foreman "pressured him, and he, the defendant, under duress due to this pressure, entered a plea of 'guilty' for 'the sole financial gain of the said attorney.'"

Attached to the petition were letters and agreements involving Ray, author William Bradford Huie of Hartselle, Ala., who is writing a book about Ray and negotiating movie rights, Hanes and Foreman.

No date has been set for a hearing on the motion. The attorney general's office has said that Ray would be returned from his maximum security cell in the penitentiary in Nashville to Memphis for any such hearings.

The motion was filed by three men listed as attorneys for Ray — Richard J. Ryan of Memphis, J. B. Stoner of Savannah, Ga., and Robert W. Hill Jr. of Chattanooga.

NEW YORK (AP) — Petula Clark has a big, professional voice and manner that accompanies, surprisingly, her Mary Pickford looks and happy, ingenuitous manner.

In an NBC special Monday night, she was surrounded by attractive people including Andy Williams and Sasha Distel, provided with some stunning clothes to wear and given pleasant and largely familiar songs to sing. There was nothing really wrong with "Portrait of Petula," but the show somehow never really got off the ground, never really demanded the attention of the viewer.

The show probably would have been more impressive a couple of seasons back since it was a nice, respectable, bland hour of tuneful relaxation. But we have become accustomed to more—a point of view, a sharp quality, and the pepper and salt was as much missed as it would have been in a soup or a stew.

Which brings us to the most recent program of those spicy

Smothers Brothers—the program that was pulled out of the CBS lineup Sunday night after their CBS contract had been terminated abruptly.

There was a press conference in New York Monday at which Tom Smothers amplified at great length his attitudes toward the right of free expression and his objection to censorship. Eventually, a tape of the canceled show was played for the assembled press. As it turned out, it was one of the brightest, most amusing programs of the series—yet it took no particular genius to see why it made CBS executives nervous.

David Steinberg, the comedy monologist who starred in a controversial sketch about Jonah and the whale is a clever, funny fellow. His sketch had Jonah swallowed by a giant guppy instead of a whale. It was amusing all right, but unless you were in the right mood, the Biblical sketch could have carried a certain shock value, particularly on Easter.

There was also a continuing gag between Tom Smothers and Dan Rowan, a guest star, which would have been impossible to edit out. It had them presenting "Laugh-in's" Flying Fickle Finger of Fate award to Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island, a sharp critic of TV violence. It was funny but it might have been offensive to a senator interested in television affairs and without much of a show business background.

The production numbers, particularly one with Nancy Wilson and the windup on with the dancers, were especially imaginative. It seems a shame that the public will never, in all probability, see the show and make individual judgments.

Meanwhile, the termination of the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" after two more shows may find the network with a summer replacement hole to fill on short notice. But at least it is all set with a fill-in for the "Carol Burnett Show." Recording star Jimmie Rodgers will headline a summer series starting June 16, backed up by Burnett show regular Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner, with Carol's husband, Joe Hamilton, as executive producer.

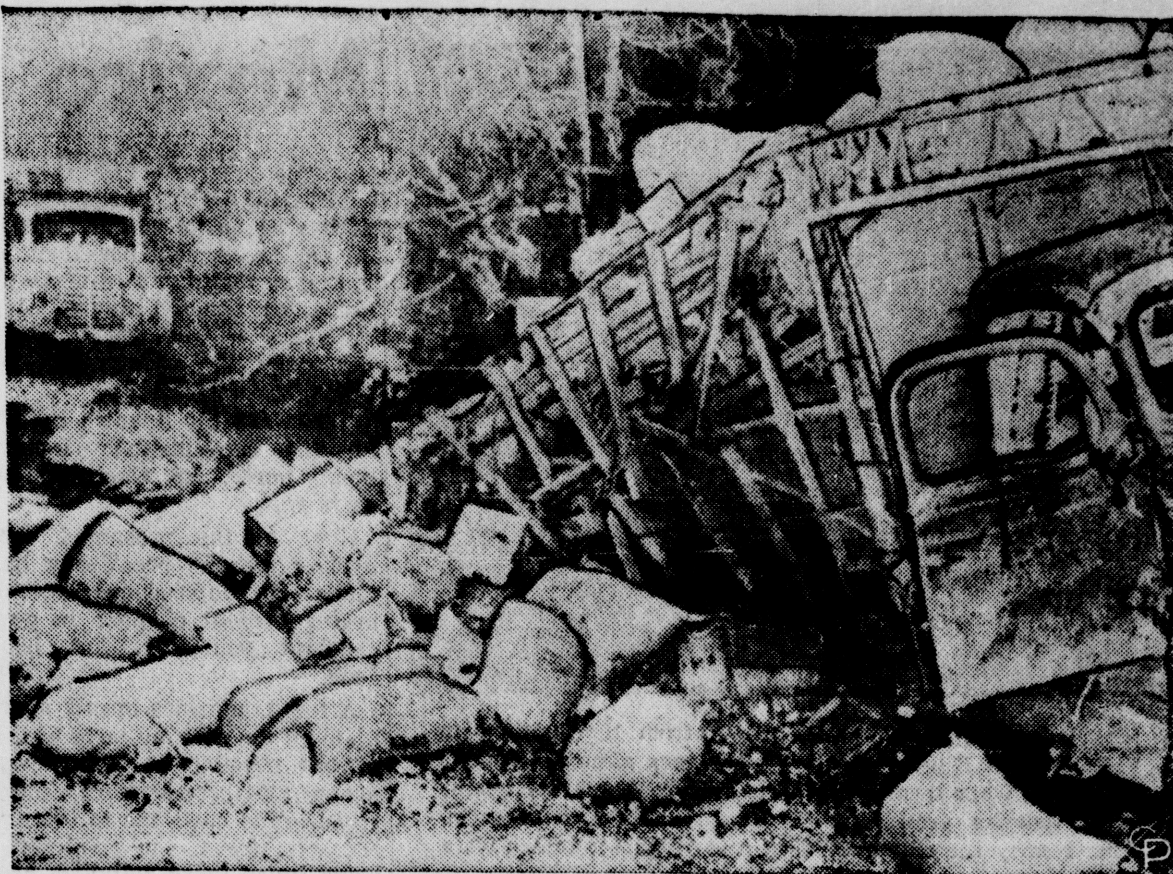

7 More Ohioans Die In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported Monday that two more Ohioans have been killed in recent action in Vietnam.

They were Army Specs. 4 Charles R. Cunningham of Cincinnati and Dennis R. Knoch of Carrollton.

Two other Ohioans, Army Spec. 5 Howard E. Yost Jr. of Newark and Army Pfc. Willie J. Siegler of Cleveland, were changed from the list of missing to dead of hostile causes.

Listed as dead not as a result of hostile action were Army Pfc. Charles D. Mosser of East Liverpool, Marine 1st Lt. Thomas A. Ross of Akron and Marine Lance Cpl. James M. Huff of Wedsworth.

Lee Trevino A Threat In Masters

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Professional baseball's second century got under way Monday and for Ted Williams and Clyde King, two of the sport's new managers, the next 100 years can only get better.

Williams' Washington Senators were bombed 8-4 by the New York Yankees in the presidential opener in Washington. King's debut was two outs from becoming a success when the Atlanta Braves pushed across two runs in the bottom of the ninth and nipped the San Francisco Giants 5-4.

Tigers Lose Opener, 7-6

The Circleville High School baseball team lost its first game of the season to visiting Wilmington Monday, 7-6.

Ty Ankrom and Randy Dresbach teamed up to pitch a two-hit game, but five physical errors and four mental errors proved costly in the South Central Ohio League contest.

Six of the Wilmington runs were unearned. The Hurricanes scored four in the fifth, all unearned, two unearned runs in the sixth and their winning run in the top of the seventh.

Circleville notched two in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth.

CIRCLEVILLE had winning runs in scoring position but a fine catch of Rick Sims' long drive by Kim Ewing in the bottom of the seventh ended the game. Ewing had started the game at first base, but was shifted to left field when Wilmington made a pitching change.

Dresbach pitched for five innings, fanning four, walking three and allowing two hits. Brown finished the game, walking three, fanning three and allowing no hits. Brown was charged with the loss.

Doug Gordley started for Wilmington. He walked one and struck out seven. Ken Williams relieved him in the sixth. He walked two and fanned three.

"It was a typical first game," CHS Coach Dan Fouts said. "It's tough to give a team six runs and expect to win."

"We were pleased with our pitching, although we gave up too many walks. Allowing a team like Wilmington only two hits through seven innings is quite a task."

team back in 1869, dropped their traditional home opener 3-2 to Los Angeles.

The remaining 18 teams, including expansionists Montreal and San Diego in the National League and Kansas City and Seattle in the American, swing into action today.

The NL schedule finds Philadelphia at Chicago and Montreal at New York in the afternoon with Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Houston at San Diego and San Francisco at Atlanta under the lights.

In the AL, it's Cleveland at Detroit, Boston at Baltimore and Minnesota at Kansas City during the day, followed by Chicago at Oakland and Seattle at California at night.

The Senators got off fast when it didn't count before 4:13, largest opening day crowd ever in the nation's capital. Hank Allen snared the first ball thrown out by President Richard M. Nixon and two subsequent tosses went to Washington coach Joe Camacho and Allen again.

Then the game began and the Senators soon were back in the familiar surroundings of last place—but this time last was only sixth in the AL's Eastern Division as the two circuits began divisional play.

The Yankees unveiled their new running game in the second inning as Roy White stole two bases and Bill Robinson one and Tom Tresh and Jake Gibbs delivered them with singles. A touch of the old Yankee power was evident in the third when Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer walloped consecutive home runs.

"It's only one game," said Williams. "I was glad the President was here. We need all the help we can get." Then he summed up his feelings in one word—"Lousy!"

The President, though, proved to be a prophet. "He kept telling us to watch out for Howard in the bottom of the ninth," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "The President kept predicting Howard would hit a home run."

It was the first time in 19 seasons the Yankees were without Mickey Mantle on the roster and the Washington scoreboard flashed the following message: "Hello, Mickey Mantle, wherever you are."

"He's fishing, somewhere off Acapulco, I think," said Phil Rizzuto, a Yankee broadcaster. It was a bitter Georgia home-

Baseball Board Slates Registration

The Circleville Youth Baseball Program Inc. has scheduled registration for the summer program from 7 to 9 p.m. April 11, from 9 a.m. to noon April 12.

A second registration session will be held 7 to 9 p.m. April 18 and 9 a.m. to noon April 19.

A "boat fund raising project" was approved Monday during the regular monthly session of the board of directors.

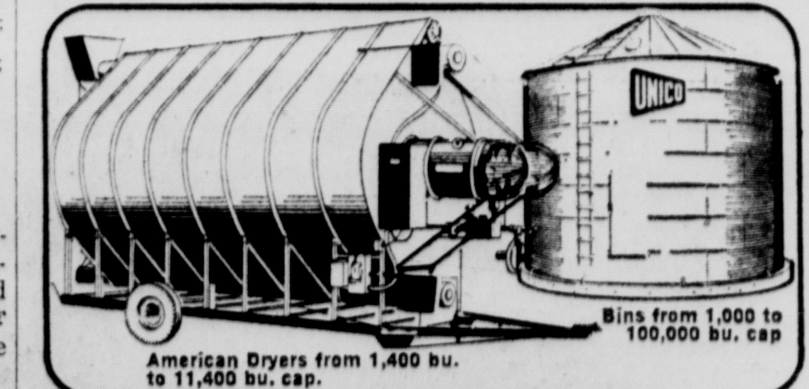

Treasurer Bob Wood presented the 1969 budget of $4,350. It was approved by the board.

The resignation of Jim Brown as a member of the board was accepted and Joe Gibbs was appointed in his place.

Bill Ankrom requested that all board members, managers and other interested persons meet at Ted Lewis Park tonight to remove stones from the baseball diamonds there.

Terry Sloane, president of the board, requests that all managers or boys who have uniforms turn them in at the registration.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Flamboyant Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican who, in little more than a year, has captured the fancy of golfdom's common man, ranks as a solid threat to add a green Master's jacket to his United States Open title.

Illness Keeps Bobby Jones From Masters Attendance

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Masters Golf Tournament will not be the same this year. Bobby Jones, the preeminent amateur of golf's golden age who conceived the Augusta National Course and the tournament itself 35 years ago and whose presence has graced the sport's premier event ever since, won't be here because of illness.

"Jones is almost synonymous with the Masters," said 1964 U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi. "We will all miss him."

Jones, 67, was stricken in 1940 with a disease of the spinal cord which eventually kills the nerves.

In recent years, Jones sat in his wheelchair in his symbolic green Masters jacket on the clubhouse veranda under the shade of the oak trees or in his green-shuttered colonial cottage overlooking the 10th tee. He said he could cover the tournament by ear just by hearing the gasps and shouts of the crowd.

Denver Rockets Face Tough Oaks In ABA Playoff

The Denver Rockets, who misfired badly in their first attempt, will try to cut down the mighty Oakland Oaks again tonight when their American Basketball Association playoff series resumes in Denver.

Oakland, runaway winner of the Western Division in the regular season, thrashed Denver, third in the West, 129-99 in the opener of the best of 7 semifinal series Saturday, but the Rockets came back to win 122-119 Sunday.

Indiana, winner in the East, entertains Kentucky, third in that division, tonight in the opener of their best of 7 set.

Monday night, Miami took a 1-0 lead over Minnesota in the other Eastern Division semifinal by beating the Pipers 119-110 and New Orleans topped Dallas 123-108 for a 2-0 lead in the other Western semifinal.

Westfall '9' Romps To 19-0 Victory

Westfall beat Picketon in a five inning game Monday afternoon on the Mustang diamond, 19-0.

The game was a no-hit game for Picketon as Carrey pitched the first three innings and Blair relieved him. Gene Carrey had seven strike outs and walked four. Bill Blair whiffed two and gave up no walks.

Patrick, Emler, Farrell, and Crace were on the mound for Picketon. They walked 13 and struck out four. Westfall managed nine hits.

Tony Lightle had two hits, a double and a single and batted in four runs. Rick Maurer had a double and a single while Blair batted in three runs.

The Mustangs scored four runs in the first inning, three markers in the second and four more in the third while knocking in eight runs in the fourth inning.

Atlanta Hawks Edge By Rockets In NBA Playoff

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The Atlanta Hawks, outshot and outrebounced by the young San Diego Rockets, were not outscrabbled.

Their 108-106 victory Monday night put the Hawks into the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoff finals with the Los Angeles Lakers.

Atlanta, beating San Diego 4-2 in their series, meets the Lakers in the first game of the best-of-7 series Wednesday night at Los Angeles.

In the Eastern Division finals, Boston leads the New York 1-0. The Celtics entertain the Knicks Wednesday night.

Mexico Starts Selecting President

By PAUL H. FINCH

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has begun its unique process of picking its next president. It is a quiet and dignified maneuvering for position among top members of the party which has ruled the country for 40 years, the PRI.

Those are the Spanish initials for the Revolutionary Institutional party. Its candidate always wins.

None of the presumed contenders for the presidency has made an impassioned speech urging radical changes in government policy. It just isn't done.

A few magazines openly speculate on the running form of the serious possibilities. But newspapers and broadcasters generally confine coverage to the overt activities of the politicians. Some times these activities are clues to the race.

"We have ended bossism in the country," says Alfonso Martinez Dominguez, PRI president. "There is no more demagoguery and political filibustering." There is plenty of debate, however, in coffee shops, cocktail parties, lunches and other social gatherings on the merits of the contenders.

The two inside terms are "tapado," meaning the "covered one" to be announced by the PRI as its candidate next September, and "quemado," or "burned one," a contender who slipped up somehow.

The mystery of the guessing game seems to be enjoyed by the man in the street. Its been going on every six years since the various parties formed during the 1910 revolution decided to bury their differences and form PRI.

There are various clues: who is closest to incumbent President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz; who has demonstrated the most administrative ability; and who has the most political skill at avoiding damaging controversy.

"No one who ever took part in the actual selection of the next president has ever talked about it," says one Mexican political science professor. "So it isn't generally known how the 'tapado' is picked. But it is certain that the incumbent president has the most say."

When the man is named the real presidential campaign will be over except for the formality of the July 1970 elections.

However, the PRI candidate will give all appearances of running a race against candidates from minor parties, such as the National Action party (PAN).

Among the leading PRI contenders to succeed Diaz Ordaz are: —Luis Echeverria, 55-year old secretary of interior, a close friend of the president and holder of the job that Diaz Ordaz held himself when he was named "tapado." However, some observers feel he may be "quemado" because of his firm handling of the 1968 student riots in which dozens were slain. These observers say his nomination might provoke further riots.

—Antonio Carrillo Flores, secretary of foreign relations and well-known as a pro-American diplomat. Among his past posts was that of ambassador to Washington. Some say his only liability is his public pro-Americanism.

Other possibilities include Jose Gil Preciado, a professor and currently secretary of agriculture; Alfonso Morones Prieto, director of the huge Social Security Institute; and Enrique Emilio Martinez Manautou, private secretary to Diaz Ordaz.

No matter who is chosen, no major shifts are expected in a program of industrializing the country; of encouraging U.S. tourism to help finance that program; and of following a middle-of-the-road policy of social progress.

Urge Stiffer Holdup Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, called Monday for stricter penalties for armed robbery to check Central Ohio's rash of service station holdups.

Norris, a former Westerville city prosecutor, said he would introduce a bill within a week amending present law which provides for armed robbery sentences of 10 to 25 years, subject to probation.

His bill proposes that persons convicted for the first time of armed robbery be denied probation during the first two years of their sentence.

A 10-year sentence without probation would be mandatory for persons convicted for second or subsequent armed robbery offenses, Norris said.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Crumpled Petals' Bother Bachelor

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, a bachelor, and a college graduate. I recently returned to this town to head my late father's business. I have been decorated in combat and have seen my share of the world, and now I am ready to settle down for the right girl.

Finding a desirable mate among wet-nosed college co-eds, divorcees, and town tramps is virtually impossible.

Nonetheless, there is one who has become rather special. We dated in high school. She was the local beauty queen and is still very attractive. However, she is divorced and has two children.

I could care for this woman, and the question of marriage has crossed my mind, but in my present business position I shudder at the thought of shacking myself with children who aren't mine, and a "second-hand Rose" with crumpled petals.

S.O.S.
DEAR S. O. S.: Sounds to me as tho the little lady has already had her share of headaches, so give her a break and look further for a mate. If you regard a divorcee as a "second-hand Rose with crumpled petals" and admit that you can't accept another man's children as your own, this woman is not for you.

DEAR ABBY: We have many children in our neighborhood who have B. B. guns. One 14-year-old started coming into my yard to shoot birds, and I saw him handling his gun in a very irresponsible manner. I called his mother and told her if her son was going to use a gun, he should go to the YMCA and take a course in the proper handling of firearms. She told me he KNEW how to handle a gun, yet I've seen him pumping his gun with the barrel pointed toward his head. I then told her that since I have children who are six and eight, whose playmates come over a lot, I didn't want her boy in my yard with his gun. (One child had already suffered a chipped tooth from a shot in the mouth.)

Well, the next time I saw the boy in my yard with his gun I called the police. Not out of anger, but out of concern for his own safety as well as the safety of others. I didn't sign a complaint. I just told the officer to talk to him.

Now the boy's mother is furious with me. She said I should not have called the police, that I should have called her again, instead, Abby. I like this woman. If you say I'm wrong, I'll apologize.

MRS. H. DERBY, KAS
DEAR MRS. H.: No apologies are necessary. I think your neighbor should send you a dozen sunflowers.

DEAR ABBY: Well, gal, I must admit you've got it. My hubby reads your column before he even looks at the rest of the paper.

For years I've had a problem I couldn't seem to solve. You see, John is a swell guy, but he hates water like a cat does, and I just couldn't get him to take a bath even once a week. Well, one day I said, "John, if you don't start taking a bath once a week I am going to consult Abby." Wham! He was in the tub like a flash.

So chalk up this woman as one of your biggest admirers. No name, please, John would have a fit.

GI Starts Trip Home With Girl

SAIGON (AP) — The American GI and the tiny Vietnamese girl began a long journey to the United States Sunday with a pedicab ride to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

They were Spec. 4 John C. Dembrosky of Bethlehem, Pa., and his adopted daughter Chau Tri Phuc of the Mekong Delta. Dembrosky spent his Army tour in Vietnam with the 9th Signal Battalion 9th Infantry Division. He and his wife had no children of their own, and soon after he arrived in the Delta he began taking part in his unit's civic action program at the Catholic children's orphanage in the province capital of My Tho. There he met 3-year-old Chau Tri, now renamed Carla Sue.

The soldier visited the girl every Sunday and began the long process of acquiring adoption papers for her. Regulations stated Dembrosky had to be Roman Catholic, married and cleared by both U.S. authorities and the South Vietnamese government. A chaplain in the 9th Division devoted many hours to help clear bureaucratic channels. Six months later the girl legally became Carla Sue Dembrosky.

They plan to live in Allentown, Pa., where Dembrosky's wife makes her home.

Hysteria In Chickens Similar To Humans

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Scientists say hysteria in chicken flocks is caused by some of the same things that might trigger hysteria in humans—social pressures, pain and fear. Besides being noisy, hysterical chickens often kill themselves and one another.

Speakers at the Washington State University Poultrymen's Institute recommend the combination of diet supplements and soft talk to pacify pullets who might otherwise take a cackling, clawing, flying leap off the deep end.

Antitrust Rule Handed Down By Justices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday forbade large corporations to condition lending of money on the customer's promise to buy goods only from them.

The 5-4 ruling extends the reach of federal antitrust law. The court directly outlawed a tying agreement used by the credit subsidiary of U.S. Steel Corp.

The subsidiary, U.S. Steel Homes Credit Corp., had insisted in a 1960 loan agreement with a Louisville developer, Fortner Enterprises, Inc., that Fortner agree to buy 219 prefabricated house packages for a minimum of $678,900.

The loan and loan commitments were in excess of $2.5 million.

Fortner told the court it found "defects" in the prefabricated house, but Credit Corp. would not permit Fortner to put conventional houses on its subdivision.

A federal court in Louisville dismissed Fortner's antitrust suit in 1966. Last April the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati agreed, so Fortner appealed to the Supreme Court.

Governor Grants Execution Stay To Lee Henley

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Monday granted a stay of execution until May 16 for condemned slayer Lee Arthur Henley of Cincinnati.

Henley, 23, was scheduled to die in the electric chair Friday, April 11.

The stay was granted to allow Henley's attorneys to file a post conviction appeal action with the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, prison warden Harold J. Cardwell said.

Henley was convicted in the 1964 shotgun slaying of a carry-out clerk in Cincinnati. Earlier, Rhodes had overruled a state parole board recommendation that Henley's death sentence be commuted.

Justice Douglas To Speak At CWRU

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is to speak before the Student Bar Association of the Case Western Reserve University Law School this Friday night.

Douglas is scheduled to speak on "The Individual and His In-finite Worth," and then answer questions.

Baseball Starts 2nd Century Lee Trevino A Threat In Masters

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Professional baseball's second century got under way Monday and for Ted Williams and Clyde King, two of the sport's new managers, the next 100 years can only get better.

Williams' Washington Senators were bombed 8-4 by the New York Yankees in the presidential opener in Washington. King's debut was two outs from becoming a success when the Atlanta Braves pushed across two runs in the bottom of the ninth and nipped the San Francisco Giants 5-4.

The Cincinnati Reds, descendants of the first pro baseball team back in 1869, dropped their traditional home opener 3-2 to Los Angeles.

The remaining 18 teams, including expansionists Montreal and San Diego in the National League and Kansas City and Seattle in the American, swing into action today.

The NL schedule finds Philadelphia at Chicago and Montreal at New York in the afternoon with Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Houston at San Diego and San Francisco at Atlanta under the lights.

In the AL, it's Cleveland at Detroit, Boston at Baltimore and Minnesota at Kansas City during the day, followed by Chicago at Oakland and Seattle at California at night.

The Senators got off fast when it didn't count before 49,113, largest opening day crowd ever in the nation's capital. Hank Allen snared the first ball thrown out by President Richard M. Nixon and two subsequent tosses went to Washington coach Joe Camacho and Allen again.

Then the game began and the Senators soon were back in the familiar surroundings of last place—but this time last was only sixth in the AL's Eastern Division as the two circuits began divisional play.

The Yankees unveiled their new running game in the second inning as Roy White stole two bases and Bill Robinson one and Tom Tresh and Jake Gibbs delivered them with singles. A touch of the old Yankee power was evident in the third when Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer walloped consecutive home runs.

"It's only one game," said Williams. "I was glad the President was here. We need all the help we can get." Then he summed up his feelings in one word—"Lousy!"

The President, though, proved to be a prophet. "He kept telling us to watch out for Howard in the bottom of the ninth," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "The President kept predicting Howard would hit a home run."

It was the first time in 19 seasons the Yankees were without Mickey Mantle on the roster and the Washington scoreboard flashed the following message: "Hello, Mickey Mantle, wherever you are."

"He's fishing, somewhere off Acapulco, I think," said Phil Rizzuto, a Yankee broadcaster. It was a bitter Georgia home-

Tigers Lose Opener, 7-6

The Circleville High School baseball team lost its first game of the season to visiting Wilmington Monday, 7-6.

Ty Ankrom and Randy Dresbach teamed up to pitch a two-hit game, but five physical errors and four mental errors proved costly in the South Central Ohio League contest.

Six of the Wilmington runs were unearned. The Hurricanes scored four in the fifth, all unearned, two unearned runs in the sixth and their winning run in the top of the seventh.

Circleville notched two in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth.

CIRCLEVILLE had winning runs in scoring position but a fine catch of Rick Sims' long drive by Kim Ewing in the bottom of the seventh ended the game. Ewing had started the game at first base, but was shifted to left field when Wilmington made a pitching change.

Dresbach pitched for five innings, fanning four, walking three and allowing two hits. Brown finished the game, walking three, fanning three and allowing no hits. Brown was charged with the loss.

Doug Gordley started for Wilmington. He walked one and struck out seven. Ken Williams relieved him in the sixth. He walked two and fanned three.

"It was a typical first game," CHS Coach Dannie Fouts said. "It's tough to give a team six runs and expect to win."

"We were pleased with our pitching, although we gave up too many walks. Allowing a team like Wilmington only two hits through seven innings is quite a task."

coming for San Francisco's King, who managed the Atlanta Crackers to the Southern Association pennant in 1956.

Trailling 3-1, the Giants routed Pat Jarvis in the seventh, scoring three times on a double by Bobby Etheridge, singles by Hal Lanier, pinch hitter Bob Burda and Willie Mays, a walk to Bobby Bonds and Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly.

That took 26-game winner Juan Marichal off the hook. But the Braves pulled it out against Frank Linzy when Cleto Boyer opened the ninth with a single and, one out later, scored on Sonny Jackson's triple. Mike Lum then singled Jackson home with the winner.

Dick Dietz homered for the Giants.

Don Drysdale withstood home runs by the first two batters he faced and settled down to pitch the Dodgers past Cincinnati. The tall right-hander's arm stiffened after six innings and Bill Singer finished up with hitless ball.

"I tell you, they kind of opened my eyes a little bit," Drysdale said after Pete Rose and Bobby Tolan clipped him for opening homers. But Tom Haller's single and Jim LeFebvre's single got one run back in the second and the Dodgers won it against Gary Nolan in the third on singles by Willie Crawford and Len Gabrielson and Ron Fairly's two-run triple.

Rookie umpire Dick Stello also opened some eyes when he nailed Drysdale once for taking more than the specified 20 seconds between pitches and called an automatic ball.

Vikings Topped By Wehrle, 6-1

The Teays Valley Viking were beaten by a strong Wehrle baseball team 6-1, Monday in perfect weather.

Nick Contosta led the Wehrle team by striking out nine and hitting three for three at the plate.

Teays Valley scored their only run in the third inning and managed only four hits during the game.

Wehrle scored two in the initial inning and one in the second, third, fourth, and fifth inning.

The Vikings are 0-2 for the season while Wehrle has an unblemished record of 3-0.

Teays Valley takes on Dublin today on the Viking Diamond.

Boston Patriots Eye Seattle Move

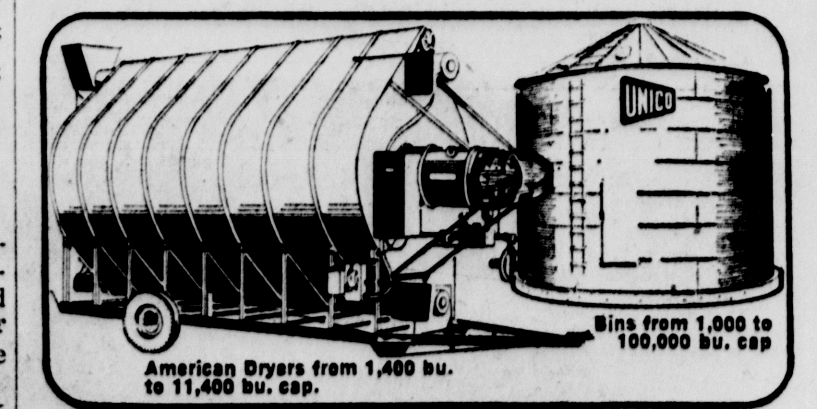

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Patriots of the American Football League "are on the threshold of moving to Seattle," the Boston Herald Traveler said today in a copyrighted story.

"Their departure from Boston appears so imminent it could happen within a few days," the newspaper said.

Because the Patriots will be unable to use Fenway Park, the Red Sox' home field, until late October, and because prospects for a new stadium are dim, "the Patriots are under heavy pressure from pro football leaders to move immediately," the Herald Traveler said.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Flamboyant Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican who, in little more than a year, has captured the fancy of golfdom's common man, ranks as a solid threat to add a green Master's jacket to his United States Open title.

"I'm playing real well," the swarthy, grinning guy from West Texas' desolate border country said after a practice round Monday.

Billy Martin Seeks To Be Just Himself

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Billy Martin, who has been working diligently for several years to erase his old image as the Yankee brawler, just wants to be himself as manager of the Minnesota Twins.

Denver Rockets Face Tough Oaks In ABA Playoff

The Denver Rockets, who misfired badly in their first attempt, will try to cut down the mighty Oakland Oaks again tonight when their American Basketball Association playoff series resumes in Denver.

Oakland, runaway winner of the Western Division in the regular season, thrashed Denver, third in the West, 129-99 in the opener of the best of 7 semifinal series Saturday, but the Rockets came back to win 122-119 Sunday.

Indiana, winner in the East, entertains Kentucky, third in that division, tonight in the opener of their best of 7 set.

Monday night, Miami took a 1-0 lead over Minnesota in the other Eastern Division semifinal by beating the Pipers 119-110 and New Orleans topped Dallas 123-108 for a 2-0 lead in the other Western semifinal.

really like the course, I guess. But mostly I was thinking about this one. Just kept thinking about this one."

Trevino, unknown this time two years ago but now one of the leading money winners, will be among the elite field of 83 of the world's best shot-makers who tee off in Thursday's first round over the lushly green, rolling acres of the 6,980-yard, par 72 Augusta National Course.

"I've only had 27 holes of practice," Trevino said. "But I like this course."

Westfall '9' Romps To 19-0 Victory

Westfall beat Picketon in a five inning game Monday afternoon on the Mustang diamond, 19-0.

The game was a no-hit game for Picketon as Carfrey pitched the first three innings and Blair relieved him. Gene Carfrey had seven strike outs and walked four. Bill Blair whiffed two and gave up no walks.

Patrick, Emiler, Farrell, and Crace were on the mound for Picketon. They walked 13 and struck out four. Westfall managed nine hits.

Tony Lightle had two hits, a double and a single and batted in four runs. Rick Maurer had a double and a single while Blair batted in three runs.

The Mustangs scored four runs in the first inning, three markers in the second and four more in the third while knocking in eight runs in the fourth inning.

The Mustangs are 2-0 for the season with Carfrey the winning pitcher in both games.

Atlanta Hawks Edge By Rockets In NBA Playoff

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks, outshot and outrebounced by the young San Diego Rockets, were not outscrabbled.

Their 108-106 victory Monday night put the Hawks into the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoff finals with the Los Angeles Lakers.

Atlanta, beating San Diego 4-2 in their series, meets the Lakers in the first game of the best-of-7 series Wednesday night at Los Angeles.

In the Eastern Division finals, Boston leads the New York 1-0. The Celtics entertain the Knicks Wednesday night.

No games are scheduled to night.

NBA Clubs Start Fast; Draft 29 Players In 22 Minutes

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The flip side of the coin for the Phoenix Suns turned out to be Neal Walk of Florida.

Nixon Backs Senators, To No Avail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, the man who never gave up his dream of the presidency, didn't give up on the Washington Senators Monday either—even when they were eight runs behind.

"He kept predicting a big rally," said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who sat in the presidential box for the American League opener.

The big rally never came and the traditional tailend Senators lost to the New York Yankees 8-4.

By the ninth inning with the score 8-2, Nixon had stopped forecasting a Senators' blitzkrieg.

But, said Kuhn, "he said Frank Howard would be worth watching his last time up."

Howard brought the record opening day crowd of 45,113, including the president, to its feet with a clothesline shot to straight center for a two-run homer.

"There were not many tough decisions to make today," Manager Ted Williams said of his managerial debut.

Easter basket for the Boston Celtics turned out to be Jo Jo White of Kansas.

That's the way it went Monday as the National Basketball Association ran through the first two rounds of its draft of college seniors in fast-break style.

It took the 14 clubs just 22 minutes to select 29 players in the telephone draft session in the offices of Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy. The draft will be completed in New York May 7.

Phoenix, which lost a coin toss to Milwaukee for the right to pick first, chose the 6-foot-10 Walk just moments after Milwaukee had selected Lew Alcindor.

The drafting of Alcindor by Milwaukee—the last-place finisher in the Eastern Division as Phoenix was in the Western—was a mere formality because the Bucks had signed the 7-1½ UCLA All-American last week for a reported $1.4 million package.

Phillies Send Wine To Montreal Expos

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies sent veteran shortstop Bobby Wine to Montreal Monday to replace pitcher Larry Jackson, who retired after the Expos drafted him this winter.

Bob Carpenter, the Phillies' owner, said he felt he had a moral obligation to Montreal to offer them a player of some experience.

Wine, 30, in seven years with the Phillies batted .216, but for many seasons was considered the National League's best defensive shortstop.

The Celtics, who picked ninth in the first round, had expected White to be gone by the time their turn came. But he wasn't and so the 6-3 Olympian became a Celtic.

Joining Alcindor and walk, who was also the No. 2 pick in the rival American Basketball Association, were Lucious Allen, by Seattle; Terry Driscoll of Boston College, by Detroit, and Larry Cannon of La Salle, by Chicago.

The 6-2 Allen was a teammate of Alcindor's for two seasons until he left UCLA before his senior year.

Baltimore, the regular season winner in the East, picked last in the first round and took Mike

Davis of Virginia Union while the Los Angeles Lakers, winners in the West, chose Willie McCarter of Drake and Rick Roberson of Cincinnati.

Mexican Jockey Hurt

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Juan Pablo Diaz, a 29-year-old jockey from Mexico, received possibly serious head injuries Monday when his horse fell in the ninth race at Golden Gate Field. Doctors said he had a concussion and called in consulting specialist.

Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns led National Football League scorers last season with 16 touchdowns.

What if we told you to cough up $18.75 or else?

A little over 4 dollars for every 3 you invest. Plus, the privilege of buying the new 5% Freedom Shares along with your Bonds.

But these are the selfish reasons for buying Bonds.

Good, but selfish.

There's one other very important reason why Americans already own over $52 billion in Bonds.

It's called pride.

It just so happens that most Americans still choose to think this is the best piece of real estate going.

If you happen to be one of these Americans who thinks there's something to this country of ours, why not buy into it.

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Or go to your bank.

And cough up that $18.75.

Please.

You wouldn't like it, of course.

You see, one of the nice things about buying U.S. Savings Bonds is that you don't have to.

That's because you happen to live in a free country where nobody forces you to do anything.

Rather, your country asks that you simply consider the many advantages of Savings Bonds.

First of all, if you think they're a get-rich-quick scheme, forget it. Bonds aren't for you. They only pay off in the long haul. For a quick return, there are a lot better ways to make a buck.

They do pay off, however. Handsomely, as a matter of fact.

Adults More Guilty Of Drug Abuse Than Teen-Agers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article is the fourth of a ten part series on drug abuse in Pickaway County. The series was prepared with the help of local law enforcers, doctors, drug abusers and other members of the community.

By JOHN C. PURCELL
Herald Staff Writer

Teenagers are often accused of misusing drugs, but locally adults seem to be more guilty of such behavior than their children.

Thousands of pep and depressant pills enter Pickaway County each year. On an average one out of every four of them is abused.

The abuse of the pills is limited primarily to adults; the teens preferring use of other drugs.

Cigarettes and alcohol, classified by the American Medical Assn. as drugs, are still the major items abused. However, the number of pills misused in relation to cigarettes and alcohol is growing rapidly, according to one local doctor.

"THERE was a time when all we had to contend with was someone showing up on the job drunk or with a hangover," stated one local supervisor. "Today pills seem to be taking the place of booze over the weekends."

The pills are taken for a wide variety of reasons ranging from increased energy to a need for rest and relaxation to just wanting to forget problems for a while.

"So long as the drugs don't effect a man's work we don't say anything. We figure that what a man does on his own time is his business," stated a local manager.

"But the problem is starting to get out of hand in some areas," stated another supervisor.

"My company loses thousands of dollars each year due to the abuse of drugs," he said.

The pep pills create a false sense of security and well-being. They can lead to bad mistakes in judgement.

"DEPRESSANTS on the other hand slow down reaction time. Depending on the type of job a person has, abuse of either one of these type drugs can cause costly mistakes for the company," he stated.

"Publicly, of course, we have no problem here," said one respected supervisor who consented to answer questions provided neither he nor his company was named.

"If you quote my name in public I would have to deny that the problem exists. Officially, there is no problem, unofficially it exists and is growing faster than most people are aware," he stated.

The problem is seldom made public because we are dealing with "polite" drugs abused by highly reputable people.

The company never mentions the problem because it would be embarrassing to everyone involved if charges were brought or rumors were started about someone.

"The company also has a certain public image which it tries to maintain, and charges or rumors of drug abuse at the local facilities would disturb that image," he said.

A man taking pep pills or exempt narcotic drugs can buy them under his legal name, have his doctor prescribe pills for him and have his wife buy the drugs under her name.

In that manner he can keep himself in a good supply of drugs, about triple the permitted dosage.

a problem, it seldom comes to the attention of doctors or company medical authorities unless purely by accident.

The person on drugs is seldom taking them when he goes in to see the doctor.

The pep pills and depressants are not addicting. It is possible to lay off the drugs for a few days before you go in for a checkup.

"AFTER you have been off the drugs a few days, you go in, have your check up, pass with flying colors and leave without ever giving the doctor any reason to believe that you are on drugs," according to a local nurse.

"The next day you can be back to popping pills." The size of local practices and the speed with which patients must be processed often makes it difficult to be certain of any but the most obvious of drug abuse cases. Even then it is difficult to detect the abuse if the patient is new in town without much of a local medical record. It is even harder when the patient is trying to cover up his abuse, the nurse continued.

Who are the men and women who turn to pep pills and depressants to get through the day?

"In our plant, it is usually the bright young man who wants to get ahead in a hurry, the older man who is having trouble keeping up and the worker with a monotonous job," stated a local executive.

"The young man is often in a hurry to impress someone. This may be his first real job and he wants to be a big shot with the company by age 30. That means turning out a lot of work and being on top of everything."

"To get the energy necessary, some men turn to pep pills. Depressants come as a natural companion; they calm the jittery nerves caused by the stimulants and permit sleep."

"SOME of the older men who should know better, see the young eager beaver starting to catch up. They think they still have to prove themselves, so they start pushing themselves and end up in the same cycle of stimulants and depressants."

"The drugs are also used to break the monotony of a physical routine," he continued. "Depressants are usually used in this case."

"It used to be that you would occasionally catch a man drinking. But the drugs don't have the easily detected signs of alcohol so more men are turning to them and away from alcohol to escape their boredom."

"Like I said, publicly, we have no drug problem here," continued the supervisor. "And we would say so in public to protect the company's image. But in reality we have had to turn to policing our own grounds to prevent the sale of drugs."

"One man was caught selling goofballs (depressants) at work a few months back. We had to let him go, but naturally, no charges were ever filed with the police," noted one company employee.

Pickaway Twp. PTO Slates Annual Tea

The last meeting of the school year of Pickaway Twp. PTO will be 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10 in the school auditorium.

The annual tea will be held honoring teachers of the school. Guest speaker at the meeting will be Joan Wagner of Walnut St. Greenhouse, who will speak on "Flower Arranging."

Services Slated

The Rev. G. H. Niswender, pastor of Calvary United Methodist Church, corner of Mill and Washington Sts., announced special evangelistic services to be held beginning Sunday and continuing through the following Sunday.

The Rev. Grant Carothers, a former member of the church, will present the sermons for the services beginning 7:30 p.m. each evening including Saturday. Special musical numbers will be presented.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

"No police reports are ever made of drug abuse, or rather suspected drug abuse, for several reasons," explained a local company employee. "First, the company tries not to interfere with a person's private life; and second, when does unwise use of drugs become actual drug abuse?"

"IF YOU take a few drinks Friday night to loosen up, are you a drunk? If you take an unprescribed pep pill a couple times a week to get some work caught up or to be in top condition for a meeting, are you a drug abuser?"

"The only cases we might do something about are those involving hard drugs, hallucinogenics or marijuana, because the use would be easier to prove."

Another group of adult drug abusers are older women whose families have grown up and left, or women who used to have a job but stopped working a few years ago when their husband's salary was raised.

"Usually this type of person will turn to depressants," stated a local physician. "Depressants can create a comfortable stupor in which you can waste away your life and never feel guilty," he said.

"Most of these women either feel useless or guilty. They don't turn to alcohol because it is too easy to notice, so they start using depressants. The depressants help bury the other emotions."

Access to the drugs is not difficult. One woman bought drugs in her name, had her husband buy drugs and then had her three married daughters buy exempt drugs. In this manner it was difficult for the police to check on the abuse of the drugs by consulting pharmacy records.

DIET pills are also often bought by such women in large quantities for improper purposes. The pills create a feeling of socialability and happiness without the telltale signs of alcohol.

"I used to get the pills from my doctor," stated one local woman. "I would save them up for days and then have a splurge and take several all at once."

A lot of my friends do the same thing, she stated. "I know several other ladies in the card playing group I belong to and they do the same thing, or get their pills from some place else. It is pleasant for a while and fun in a naughty sort of way," she said.

"Besides," she continued, "it is socially safer than drinking." Would she turn to other drugs such as marijuana? "Heavens no, that is kid stuff," she replied.

BUT it is becoming more and more "big kid" stuff.

"I smoke it occasionally," stated a school teacher. "I enjoy it and I admit it, but I seldom smoke it here. If I do want some, I go to Columbus and see some friends."

"Why not smoke it," he asked. Everyone enjoys their own thing. Smoking pot is enjoyable and it doesn't necessarily make you an addict.

Saying that a smoke of pot makes you a drug addict is like saying that if you drink a bottle of beer you will become an alcoholic. It is possible, but not probably.

This teacher is not alone among some of the younger adults in the area that "occasionally light up."

A lot of the young adults have tried it. There is something bad, but exciting about it, he stated.

"You don't try it in college and you feel left out, so you eventually find some and experiment childishly with it. As easy as it is to get here in Pickaway County, or by going to Columbus, there is no reason for not trying it," he continued.

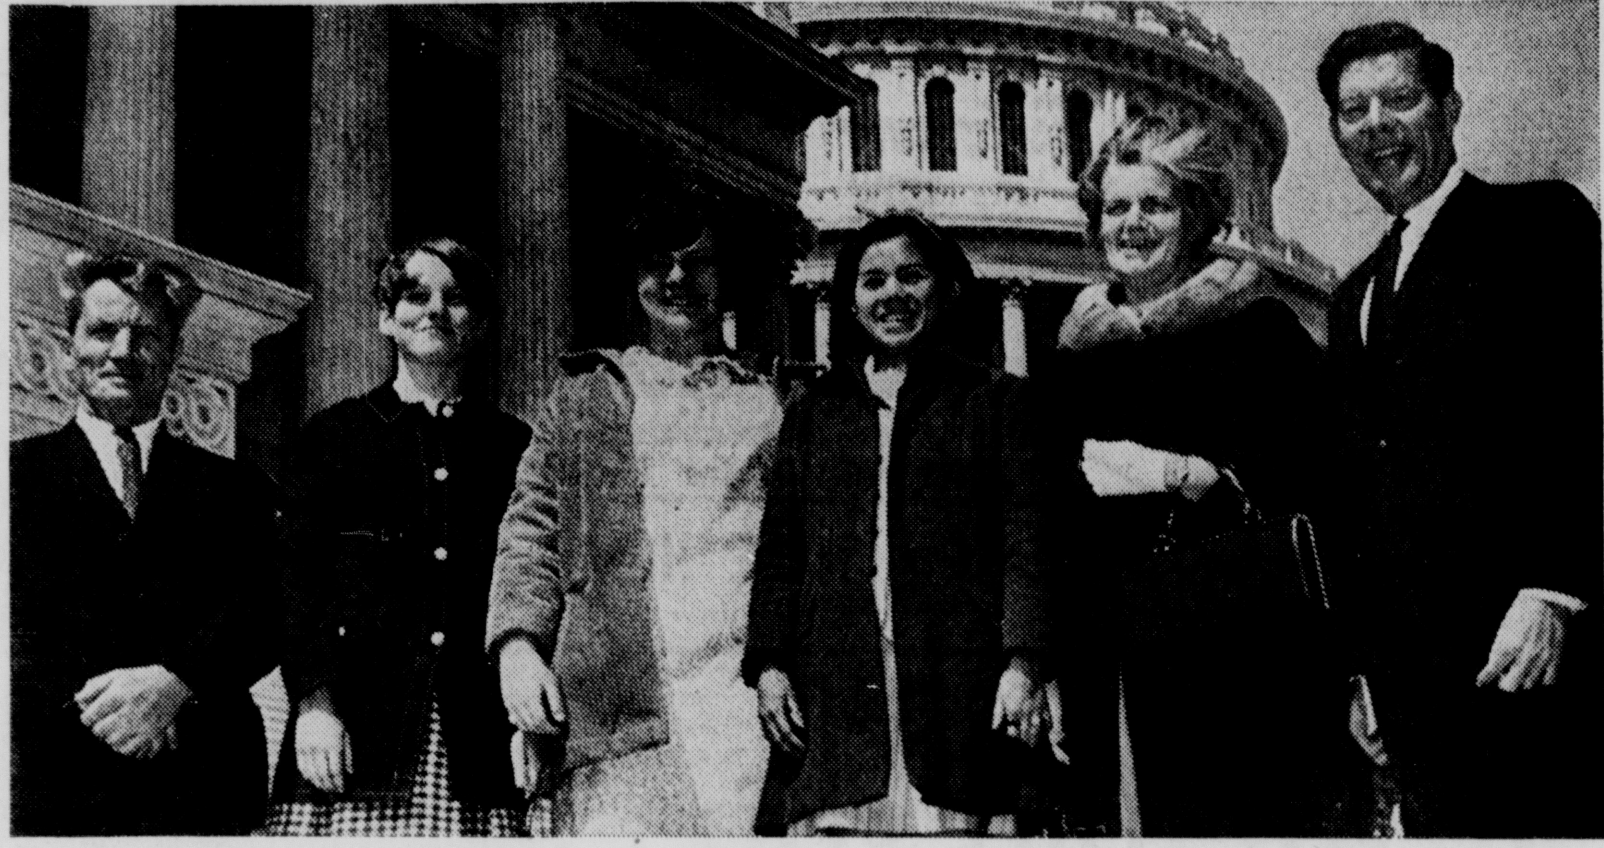

"SEVERAL friends were trying it this summer. It was generally accepted by the group." Most of them were 19-23 years old and college-educated, he said.

"At one time there were as many as 30 local people that I knew who were showing up at some of the local parties at homes and apartments to try pot. It was the "in" thing for awhile. It probably will be again this summer," he said.

However, during the winter it is more common to go to Columbus if you plan on using marijuana. A bunch of cars parked in front of a house look more suspicious during the winter than the summer.

As in the cases of the other adult drug abusers interviewed there is seldom any feeling of guilt about using marijuana.

As one woman who had been abusing depressants for years before being caught stated, "either you don't think of yourself as an abuser or you find a way of justifying your actions. As for the law, you figured that it isn't fair or it wouldn't be depriving you of something you feel you need, so you go ahead and ignore it," she said.

Simmons Escapes Mexican Prison

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I can't think they'd send me back — I'm innocent," said Dyk Askev Simmons after his escape from a Mexican prison where he spent 10 years under sentence of death as a killer.

Simmons, who walked out of the Monterrey prison disguised as a woman, was driven across the Texas border in a friend's car and he flew to Los Angeles Monday from Harlingen with his lawyer, Dennis Frederickson of Beverly Hills.

"They may try to extradite me," said the 40-year-old former Ft. Worth, Tex., laborer. "I'm not running anywhere. After 10 years, I've got hot showers, clean sheets, rugs on the floor. No more adobe. I'm free."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said there had been no word from Mexico on possible extradition proceedings.

Simmons had been held in Monterrey since Oct. 12, 1959, when he was arrested while on a vacation trip and accused of fatally shooting three members of a dentist's family.

Convicted and sentenced to die by firing squad, Simmons continued to protest his innocence and ask for official U.S. aid to win his freedom.

A State Department spokesman said two years ago "We are quietly working through proper channels."

Convinced there was no hope of help from Washington, he said, he spread pancake make-up on his face Sunday, put a shawl on his head and climbed into a dress "padded in all the appropriate places."

Then, with about 400 women who had been visiting family members at the Nuevo Leon state prison at Monterrey, he walked out the gates which had closed him in since 1959, went another 500 yards to a waiting car and was driven to Texas.

The slain Mexicans were Hilda Perez Villagomez, 22, her sister Maria, 19, and her brother Manuel, 17. Dying of gunshot wounds, Hilda described the killer as a big light-haired American with one or two gold teeth, and driving a 1958 light blue car.

Simmons was darker haired, almost 35 pounds lighter, and three inches shorter, had no gold teeth and drove a 1954 car of a different make. Identifying him in her hospital room Hilda said: "I am almost sure. May God forgive me if I made a mistake."

About 20 months after his conviction, a higher court ruled the trial court erred in accepting the young women's deathbed identification. The trial court reaffirmed the conviction and for a second time sentenced Simmons to death. Why this sentence was never carried out is not clear.

Two days after his first conviction, Simmons said, he was due to die before a firing squad but "it just didn't happen."

Gunfire Ends In Officer's Death; 3 Hurt

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — One off-duty Cleveland policeman was killed and another seriously wounded after an alleged shoplifting attempt at a downtown dress shop ended in an exchange of gunfire Monday night.

The shoplifting suspect and a female companion were also seriously wounded, both in the chest.

The patrolman killed was John R. Apanes Jr., 27, the father of two children. Patrolman John M. McNamara, 46, the father of eight, underwent emergency surgery for a stomach wound and was in critical condition early today.

Both officers were working as plainclothes guards at a Petries dress shop on Euclid Avenue.

Joseph McDonald, 26, of Cleveland, was arrested after the shooting. He was listed in critical condition and his alleged companion, Joann Daniels, 20, of Dayton, was in poor condition at St. Vincent Charity Hospital.

Nixon Backs Senators, To No Avail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, the man who never gave up his dream of the presidency, didn't give up on the Washington Senators Monday either—even when they were eight runs behind.
"He kept predicting a big rally," said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who sat in the presidential box for the American League opener.
The big rally never came and the traditional tailend Senators lost to the New York Yankees 8-4.
By the ninth inning with the score 8-2, Nixon had stopped forecasting a Senators' blitzkrieg.
But, said Kuhn, "he said Frank Howard would be worth watching his last time up."
Howard brought the record opening day crowd of 45,113, including the president, to its feet with a clothesline shot to straight center for a two-run homer.
"There were not many tough decisions to make today," Manager Ted Williams said of his managerial debut.

Easter basket for the Boston Celtics turned out to be Jo Jo White of Kansas.
That's the way it went Monday as the National Basketball Association ran through the first two rounds of its draft of college seniors in fast-break style.
It took the 14 clubs just 22 minutes to select 29 players in the telephone draft session in the offices of Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy. The draft will be completed in New York May 7.
Phoenix, which lost a coin toss to Milwaukee for the right to pick first, chose the 6-foot-10 Walk just moments after Milwaukee had selected Lew Alcindor.

The drafting of Alcindor by Milwaukee—the last-place finisher in the Eastern Division as Phoenix was in the Western—was a mere formality because the Bucks had signed the 7-1½ UCLA All-American last week for a reported $1.4 million package.

Phillies Send Wine To Montreal Expos
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies sent veteran shortstop Bobby Wine to Montreal Monday to replace pitcher Larry Jackson, who retired after the Expos drafted him this winter.
Bob Carpenter, the Phillies' owner, said he felt he had a moral obligation to Montreal to offer them a player of some experience.
Wine, 30, in seven years with the Phillies batted .216, but for many seasons was considered the National League's best defensive shortstop.

The Celtics, who picked ninth in the first round, had expected White to be gone by the time their turn came. But he wasn't and so the 6-3 Olympian became a Celtic.

Joining Alcindor and walk, who was also the No. 2 pick in the rival American Basketball Association, were Lucious Allen, by Seattle; Terry Driscoll of Boston College, by Detroit, and Larry Cannon of La Salle, by Chicago.

The 6-2 Allen was a teammate of Alcindor's for two seasons until he left UCLA before his senior year.

Baltimore, the regular season winner in the East, picked last in the first round and took Mike

What if we told you to cough up $18.75 or else?

You wouldn't like it, of course. You see, one of the nice things about buying U.S. Savings Bonds is that you don't have to. That's because you happen to live in a free country where nobody forces you to do anything. Rather, your country asks that you simply consider the many advantages of Savings Bonds. First of all, if you think they're a get-rich-quick scheme, forget it. Bonds aren't for you. They only pay off in the long haul. For a quick return, there are a lot better ways to make a buck. They do pay off, however. Handsomely, as a matter of fact.

A little over 4 dollars for every 3 you invest. Plus, the privilege of buying the new 5% Freedom Shares along with your Bonds.

But these are the selfish reasons for buying Bonds. Good, but selfish. There's one other very important reason why Americans already own over $52 billion in Bonds. It's called pride. It just so happens that most Americans still choose to think this is the best piece of real estate going. If you happen to be one of these Americans who thinks there's something to this country of ours, why not buy into it. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or go to your bank. And cough up that $18.75. Please.

Adults More Guilty Of Drug Abuse Than Teen-Agers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article is the fourth of a ten part series on drug abuse in Pickaway County. The series was prepared with the help of local law enforcers, doctors, drug abusers and other members of the community.

By JOHN C. PURCELL
Herald Staff Writer

Teenagers are often accused of misusing drugs, but locally adults seem to be more guilty of such behavior than their children.

Thousands of pep and depressant pills enter Pickaway County each year. On an average one out of every four of them is abused.

The abuse of the pills is limited primarily to adults; the teens preferring use of other drugs.

Cigarettes and alcohol, classified by the American Medical Assn. as drugs, are still the major items abused. However, the number of pills misused in relation to cigarettes and alcohol is growing rapidly, according to one local doctor.

"THERE was a time when all we had to contend with was someone showing up on the job drunk or with a hangover," stated one local supervisor. "Today pills seem to be taking the place of booze over the weekends."

The pills are taken for a wide variety of reasons ranging from increased energy to a need for rest and relaxation to just wanting to forget problems for a while.

"So long as the drugs don't effect a man's work we don't say anything. We figure that what a man does on his own time is his business," stated a local manager.

"But the problem is starting to get out of hand in some areas," stated another supervisor.

"My company loses thousands of dollars each year due to the abuse of drugs," he said.

The pep pills create a false sense of security and well-being. They can lead to bad mistakes in judgement.

"DEPRESSANTS on the other hand slow down reaction time. Depending on the type of job a person has, abuse of either one of these type drugs can cause costly mistakes for the company," he stated.

"Publicly, of course, we have no problem here," said one respected supervisor who consented to answer questions provided neither he nor his company was named.

"If you quote my name in public I would have to deny that the problem exists. Officially, there is no problem, unofficially it exists and is growing faster than most people are aware," he stated.

The problem is seldom made public because we are dealing with "polite" drugs abused by highly reputable people.

The company never mentions the problem because it would be embarrassing to everyone involved if charges were brought or rumors were started about someone.

"The company also has a certain public image which it tries to maintain, and charges or rumors of drug abuse at the local facilities would disturb that image," he said.

THE drugs are widely available. They can be bought through legal or illegal channels.

A man taking pep pills or exempt narcotic drugs can buy them under his legal name, have his doctor prescribe pills for him and have his wife buy the drugs under her name.

In that manner he can keep himself in a good supply of drugs, about triple the permitted dosage.

And when abuse does become a problem, it seldom comes to the attention of doctors or company medical authorities unless purely by accident.

The person on drugs is seldom taking them when he goes in to see the doctor.

The pep pills and depressants are not addicting. It is possible to lay off the drugs for a few days before you go in for a checkup.

"AFTER you have been off the drugs a few days, you go in, have your check up, pass with flying colors and leave without ever giving the doctor any reason to believe that you are on drugs," according to a local nurse. "The next day you can be back to popping pills."

The size of local practices and the speed with which patients must be processed often makes it difficult to be certain of any but the most obvious of drug abuse cases. Even then it is difficult to detect the abuse if the patient is new in town without much of a local medical record. It is even harder when the patient is trying to cover up his abuse, the nurse continued.

Who are the men and women who turn to pep pills and depressants to get through the day?

"In our plant, it is usually the bright young man who wants to get ahead in a hurry, the older man who is having trouble keeping up and the worker with a monotonous job," stated a local executive.

"The young man is often in a hurry to impress someone. This may be his first real job and he wants to be a big shot with the company by age 30. That means turning out a lot of work and being on top of everything."

"To get the energy necessary, some men turn to pep pills. Depressants come as a natural companion; they calm the jittery nerves caused by the stimulants and permit sleep."

"SOME of the older men who should know better, see the young eager beaver starting to catch up. They think they still have to prove themselves, so they start pushing themselves and end up in the same cycle of stimulants and depressants."

"The drugs are also used to break the monotony of a physical routine," he continued. "Depressants are usually used in this case."

"It used to be that you would occasionally catch a man drinking. But the drugs don't have the easily detected signs of alcohol so more men are turning to them and away from alcohol to escape their boredom."

"Like I said, publicly, we have no drug problem here," continued the supervisor. "And we would say so in public to protect the company's image. But in reality we have had to turn to policing our own grounds to prevent the sale of drugs."

"One man was caught selling golfballs (depressants) at work a few months back. We had to let him go, but naturally, no charges were ever filed with the police," noted one company employee.

Pickaway Twp. PTO Slates Annual Tea

The last meeting of the school year of Pickaway Twp. PTO will be 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10 in the school auditorium.

The annual tea will be held honoring teachers of the school. Guest speaker at the meeting will be Joan Wagner of Walnut St. Greenhouse, who will speak on "Flower Arranging."

Services Slated

The Rev. G. H. Niswender, pastor of Calvary United Methodist Church, corner of Mill and Washington Sts., announced special evangelistic services to be held beginning Sunday and continuing through the following Sunday.

The Rev. Grant Carothers, a former member of the church, will present the sermons for the services beginning 7:30 p.m. each evening including Saturday. Special musical numbers will be presented.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

"No police reports are ever made of drug abuse, or rather suspected drug abuse, for several reasons," explained a local company employee. "First, the company tries not to interfere with a person's private life; and second, when does unwise use of drugs become actual drug abuse?"

"IF YOU take a few drinks Friday night to loosen up, are you a drunk? If you take an unprescribed pep pill a couple times a week to get some work caught up or to be in top condition for a meeting, are you a drug abuser?"

"The only cases we might do something about are those involving hard drugs, hallucinogenics or marijuana, because the use would be easier to prove."

Another group of adult drug abusers are older women whose families have grown up and left, or women who used to have a job but stopped working a few years ago when their husband's salary was raised.

"Usually this type of person will turn to depressants," stated a local physician. "Depressants can create a comfortable stupor in which you can waste away your life and never feel guilty," he said.

"Most of these women either feel useless or guilty. They don't turn to alcohol because it is too easy to notice, so they start using depressants. The depressants help bury the other emotions."

Access to the drugs is not difficult. One woman bought drugs in her name, had her husband buy drugs and then had her three married daughters buy exempt drugs. In this manner it was difficult for the police to check on the abuse of the drugs by consulting pharmacy records.

DIET pills are also often bought by such women in large quantities for improper purposes.

The pills create a feeling of sociability and happiness without the telltale signs of alcohol.

"I used to get the pills from my doctor," stated one local woman. "I would save them up for days and then have a spurge and take several all at once."

A lot of my friends do the same thing, she stated. "I know several other ladies in the card playing group I belong to and
